DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be rejected.

The petitioner seeks to classify the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as a minister. The director denied the petition on July 8, 2003.

On the Form I-290B Notice of Appeal, filed on August 7, 2003, the beneficiary states, "Please give me thirty days to provide you with the compensation, and a copy of the IRS's 501(c)(3) certification."

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(iii) states, in pertinent part:

> (B) Meaning of affected party. For purposes of this section and sections 103.4 and 103.5 of this part, affected party (in addition to Citizenship and Immigration Services [CIS]) means the person or entity with legal standing in a proceeding. It does not include the beneficiary of a visa petition.

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(2)(v) states:

> Improperly filed appeal -- (A) Appeal filed by person or entity not entitled to file it -- (1) Rejection without refund of filing fee. An appeal filed by a person or entity not entitled to file it must be rejected as improperly filed. In such a case, any filing fee CIS has accepted will not be refunded.

The appeal has not been filed by the petitioner, nor by any entity with legal standing in the proceeding, but rather by the beneficiary, who personally signed the I-290B Notice of Appeal, and identified himself, rather than the petitioner, as the "Person Filing Appeal" on that form. Therefore, the appeal has not been properly filed, and must be rejected, pursuant to the above regulations.

ORDER: The appeal is rejected.
