DISCUSSION: The Director, Vermont Service Center, ("the director") denied the immigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner seeks immigrant classification under section 204(a)(1)(A)(iii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1154(a)(1)(A)(iii), as an alien battered or subjected to extreme cruelty by a United States citizen. The director denied the petition for failure to establish that the petitioner is a person of good moral character, that she resided with her husband, that she married him in good faith, and that he battered her or subjected her to extreme cruelty.

On the appeal notice, counsel briefly asserts that the director erred by failing to consider "pertinent documents," but did not specify which documents the director failed to consider. Counsel indicated that the petitioner would submit a brief and additional evidence within 30 days of filing the appeal notice. The appeal notice was filed on April 4, 2013. As of the date of this decision, we have received no further submissions.

An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal. 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v). Counsel has not identified any specific, erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact in the director's decision. Consequently, the appeal must be summarily dismissed.

In visa petition proceedings, it is the petitioner's burden to establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361; Matter of Otiende, 26 I&N Dec. 127, 128 (BIA 2013). Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
