FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Acting District Director, Miami, Florida, who certified his decision to the Associate Commissioner, Examinations, for review. The acting district director's decision will be affirmed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Honduras who filed this application for adjustment of status to that of a lawful permanent resident under section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966 (Cuban Adjustment Act). Section 1 of this Act provides, in part:

[T]he status of any alien who is a native or citizen of Cuba and who has been inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States subsequent to January 1, 1959 and has been physically present in the United States for at least one year, may be adjusted by the Attorney General, in his discretion and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to that of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence if the alien makes an application for such adjustment, and the alien is eligible to receive an immigrant visa and is admissible to the United States for permanent residence. The provisions of this Act shall be applicable to the spouse and child of any alien described in this subsection, regardless of their citizenship and place of birth, who are residing with such alien in the United States.

The acting district director determined that the applicant did not qualify for adjustment of status as the stepchild of a native or citizen of Cuba. The acting district director, therefore, denied the application.

The applicant has provided no statement or additional evidence on notice of certification.

The record reflects that on January 11, 1990, the applicant's stepfather (Andres Gonzalez) was conditionally admitted to the United States as a refugee under section 207(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1157(a). His status was subsequently adjusted to that of a lawful permanent resident (as an RE6) as of the date of his arrival in the United States. On July 21, 1997 at Hialeah, Florida, the applicant's mother married Mr. Gonzalez, a native and citizen of Cuba. Based on that marriage, on August 29, 2002, the applicant filed for adjustment of status under section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act.

The statute clearly states that the provisions of section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act shall be applicable to the spouse and child of any alien described in this subsection. In order for the applicant to be eligible for the benefits of section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966, he or she must be the spouse or child of a native or citizen of Cuba who has been inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States, and who has been physically present in the United States for at least one year. See Matter of Milian, 13 I&N Dec. 480 (Acting Reg. Comm. 1970) (applying the physical presence requirement as amended by Refugee Act of 1980, Pub. L. No. 96-212, sec. 203(i), 94 Stat. 102, 108 (1980)).

In reviewing the status of an alien applying for benefits under section 2 of the Act of November 2, 1966, the Regional Commissioner determined that an applicant who had been admitted as an immigrant in possession of a valid immigrant visa had never "originally" arrived in the United States as a nonimmigrant or parolee subsequent to January 1, 1959. In reaching this conclusion, the Regional Commissioner stated that "[s]ection 1 obviously refers to those Cuban refugees who were inspected and admitted as nonimmigrants or paroled into the United States." Matter of Benquria Y Rodriguez, 12 I&N Dec. 143 (Reg. Comm. 1967), reaffirmed by Matter of Baez Ayala, 13 I&N Dec. 79 (Reg. Comm. 1968).

In the present case, the applicant's stepfather (Mr. Gonzalez) was conditionally admitted as a refugee under section 207(a) of the Act, and not as a parolee or nonimmigrant. See Matter of Garcia-Alzugaray, 19 I&N Dec. 407, 408 (BIA 1986). Accordingly, Mr. Gonzalez was not an alien as described in section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act. Therefore, the benefits of section 1 are not available to the applicant.

It is noted for the record that the applicant claimed in her application for adjustment of status that she is married. Pursuant to section 101(b) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1101(b), the term "child" means an unmarried person under 21 years of age. Accordingly, the applicant does not meet the definition of "child" as defined in section 101(b) of the Act.

The applicant is ineligible for adjustment of status to permanent residence pursuant to section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966. The decision of the acting district director to deny the application will be affirmed.

ORDER: The acting district director's decision is affirmed.
