IN RE:

Applicant:

APPLICATION: Application for Permanent Residence Pursuant to Section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act of November 2, 1966 (P.L. 89-732)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

SELF-REPRESENTED

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, who certified her decision to the Administrative Appeals Office for review. The director's decision will be affirmed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Cuba who filed this application for adjustment of status to that of a lawful permanent resident under section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act (CAA) of November 2, 1966. The CAA provides, in part:

[T]he status of any alien who is a native or citizen of Cuba and who has been inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States subsequent to January 1, 1959 and has been physically present in the United States for at least one year, may be adjusted by the Attorney General, (now the Secretary of Homeland Security, (Secretary)), in his discretion and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to that of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence if the alien makes an application for such adjustment, and the alien is eligible to receive an immigrant visa and is admissible to the United States for permanent residence.

The director determined that the applicant had not been physically present in the United States for one year prior to the filing of the application. The director, therefore, concluded that the applicant was ineligible for adjustment of status and denied the application.

8 C.F.R. § 245.2(a)(2)(ii) provides, in part:

An application for the benefits of section 1 of the Act of November 2, 1966 is not properly filed unless the applicant was inspected and admitted or paroled into the United States subsequent to January 1, 1959. An applicant is ineligible for the benefits of the Act of November 2, 1966 unless he or she has been physically present in the United States for one year.

The record reflects that the applicant was admitted into the United States as a B-2 nonimmigrant on June 1, 2000. On April 19, 2001, less than one year after being admitted into the United States, the applicant filed the application in this matter for adjustment of status under section 1 of the Cuban Adjustment Act. In the director's decision it is noted that the applicant entered the United States as a B-1 nonimmigrant on November 19, 2001. The error by the director does not affect the decision since the record clearly reflects that she was admitted on June 1, 2000.

On notice of certification, the applicant was offered an opportunity to submit evidence in opposition to the director's findings. In response to the notice of certification, the applicant submitted a letter pointing out that the director erred on the date of entry. The applicant stated that she entered the United States on May 31, 2000. In addition she stated that she filed her application for adjustment status on April 19, 2001, which is consistent with the record. The applicant presented copies of her passport and I-94, which show that she was admitted into the United States on June 1, 2000.

Consequently, the applicant was not physically present in the United States for one year at the time of filing the adjustment application as required. She is, therefore, ineligible for the benefit sought. The director's decision will be affirmed.

This decision, however, is without prejudice to the filing of a new application for adjustment of status, along with supporting documentation and the appropriate fee, now that the applicant has been physically present in the United States for at least one year.

ORDER: The director's decision is affirmed.
