FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner seeks to classify the beneficiary as an employment-based immigrant pursuant to section 203(b)(1)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(1)(A), as an alien of extraordinary ability. The director determined the petitioner had not established the beneficiary's sustained national or international acclaim necessary to qualify for classification as an alien of extraordinary ability.

Section 203(b) of the Act states, in pertinent part, that:

(1) Priority Workers. -- Visas shall first be made available . . . to qualified immigrants who are aliens described in any of the following subparagraphs (A) through (C):

(A) Aliens with Extraordinary Ability. -- An alien is described in this subparagraph if

(i) the alien has extraordinary ability in the sciences, arts, education, business, or athletics which has been demonstrated by sustained national or international acclaim and whose achievements have been recognized in the field through extensive documentation,

(ii) the alien seeks to enter the United States to continue work in the area of extraordinary ability, and

(iii) the alien's entry to the United States will substantially benefit prospectively the United States.

As used in this section, the term 'extraordinary ability' means a level of expertise indicating that the individual is one of that small percentage who have risen to the very top of the field of endeavor. 8 C.F.R. 204.5(h)(2). The specific requirements for supporting documents to establish that an alien has sustained national or international acclaim and recognition in his or her field of expertise are set forth in the Service regulation at 8 C.F.R. 204.5(h)(3) as follows.

(i) Documentation of the alien's receipt of lesser nationally or internationally recognized prizes or awards for excellence in the field of endeavor;

(ii) Documentation of the alien's membership in associations in the field for which classification is sought, which require outstanding achievements of their members, as judged by recognized national or international experts in their disciplines or fields;

- (iii) Published material about the alien in professional or major trade publications or other major media, relating to the alien's work in the field for which classification is sought. Such evidence shall include the title, date, and author of the material, and any necessary translation;
- (iv) Evidence of the alien's participation, either individually or on a panel, as a judge of the work of others in the same or an allied field of specialization for which classification is sought;
- (v) Evidence of the alien's original scientific, scholarly, artistic, athletic, or business-related contributions of major significance in the field;
- (vi) Evidence of the alien's authorship of scholarly articles in the field, in professional or major trade publications or other major media;
- (vii) Evidence of the display of the alien's work in the field at artistic exhibitions or showcases;
- (viii) Evidence that the alien has performed in a leading or critical role for organizations or establishments that have a distinguished reputation;
- (ix) Evidence that the alien has commanded a high salary or other significantly high remuneration for services, in relation to others in the field; or
- (x) Evidence of commercial successes in the performing arts, as shown by box office receipts or record, cassette, compact disk, or video sales.

It should be reiterated, however, that the petitioner must show that the beneficiary has sustained national or international acclaim at the very top level.

This petition seeks to classify the beneficiary as an alien with extraordinary ability as a carpenter/finisher. The regulation at 8 C.F.R. 204.5(h)(3) indicates that an alien can establish sustained national or international acclaim through evidence of a one-time achievement (that is, a major, international recognized award). Barring the alien's receipt of such an award, the regulation outlines ten criteria, quoted above, at least three of which must be satisfied for an alien to establish the sustained acclaim necessary to qualify as an alien of extraordinary ability. Initially, the petitioner submitted an uncertified labor certification application, Form ETA750, a receipt reflecting that this application had been mailed to the Department of Labor, and documentation regarding the petitioning company.

On April 4, 2002, the director advised the petitioner of the ten criteria and requested evidence that the beneficiary meets at least three of those criteria. In response, the petitioner submitted a letter from the petitioner asserting that the beneficiary is a hardworking employee and that he is always trying to learn new methods.

The director concluded that the petitioner had failed to submit evidence of the beneficiary's sustained national or international acclaim. On appeal, the petitioner submitted another letter asserting that the beneficiary earns $800 biweekly, is in charge of the petitioner's solid lumber department, has a high moral character, and that the petitioner would suffer a great loss if the beneficiary left. In addition, the petitioner submitted a letter from the beneficiary asserting that his work is artistic, is perfected by practice, and is not an academic field. Finally, the petitioner submitted a letter from the president of Schaffer Corporation to the petitioning company expressing appreciation for the petitioner's assistance as a subcontractor for one of Schaffer's projects and certificates of recognition issued to the petitioning company by Stiles Construction Company for its work on two construction projects.

The statute requires extensive documentation to establish eligibility for this classification. While the regulations do not exclude individuals working in non-academic fields, the regulations do require that an alien of extraordinary ability be able to demonstrate sustained national or international acclaim. Assuming that the beneficiary is a talented carpenter/finisher, the record does not reflect that he has attained any national acclaim for that talent as the petitioner has not submitted documentation that sufficiently relates to any of the ten criteria. Specifically, the certificates of recognition from Stiles Construction Company were issued to the petitioning company, not the beneficiary. In addition, these are not nationally or internationally recognized awards. The petitioner has not established that $800 biweekly is significantly high remuneration in the beneficiary's field. Finally, we cannot conclude that supervising three employees for a small subcontractor¹ constitutes a leading or critical role for a company with a distinguished national reputation.

The documentation submitted in support of a claim of extraordinary ability must clearly demonstrate that the alien has achieved sustained national or international acclaim and is one of the small percentage who has risen to the very top of the field of endeavor.

Review of the record, however, does not establish that the beneficiary has distinguished himself as a carpenter/finisher to such an extent that he may be said to have achieved sustained national or international acclaim or to be within the small percentage at the very top of his field. Therefore, the petitioner has not established the beneficiary's eligibility pursuant to section 203(b)(1)(A) of the Act and the petition may not be approved.

The burden of proof in visa petition proceedings remains entirely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. Here, the petitioner has not sustained that burden. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.

¹ Evidence submitted initially reflects that the petitioning company employs only 10 workers.
