FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann
Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a physical therapy clinic. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a massage therapist. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the filing date of the visa petition.

On appeal, the petitioner submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's filing date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's filing date is January 28, 1997. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $17.20 per hour or $35,776.00 per annum.

The petitioner initially submitted a copy of its unaudited financial statement for the period ended June 30, 1999, and copies of its 1997 and 1998 Form 1120 U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return. The federal tax return for 1997 reflected gross receipts of $368,813; gross profit of $368,216; compensation of officers of $48,500; salaries and wages paid of $71,760; depreciation of $13,557; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of -$223. Schedule L reflected total current assets of $0 and total current liabilities of $1,276. The federal tax return for 1998 reflected gross receipts of $272,843; gross profit of $272,658; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $66,560; depreciation of $12,600; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $0. Schedule L reflected total current assets of $0 and total current liabilities of $1,949.

The director concluded that the evidence submitted did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage as of the filing date of the petition. On March 8, 2001, the director requested additional evidence to establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage as of January 28, 1997.

In response, the petitioner submitted a copy of its Form 941 Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return for the first three quarters of 2000.

The director determined that the additional evidence did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, the petitioner asserts that the employment of the beneficiary will help expand the business and eliminate the use of independent contractors. The petitioner's assertion that the funds paid to independent contractors could be used to pay the beneficiary's salary is not persuasive. These funds were not retained by the petitioner for future use. Instead, these monies were expended on compensating the independent contractors, and therefore, not readily available for payment of the beneficiary's salary in 1997. Based on the evidence submitted, it cannot be found that the petitioner had sufficient funds available to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage at the time of filing the application for alien employment certification as required by 8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2).

A review of the 1997 federal tax return shows that when one adds the depreciation and the taxable income, the result is $13,334, less than the proffered wage.

A review of the 1998 federal tax return shows that when one adds the depreciation and the taxable income, the result is $12,600, less than the proffered wage.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax returns, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered at the time of filing of the petition.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
