FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a health staffing agency. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a registered nurse. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the filing date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's filing date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's filing date is February 8, 2001. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $600.00 per week or $31,200.00 per annum.

Counsel submitted a copy of the petitioner's unaudited Income Statement for the period ended January 31, 2001.

The director determined that the evidence did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel submits copies of the petitioner's unaudited Income Statement for January, February, and March of 2001, and a copy of the petitioner's 2000 Form 1120S U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation which reflects gross receipts of $2,299,490; gross profit of $2,299,490; compensation of officers of $113,762; salaries and wages paid of $1,681,270; and an ordinary income (loss) from trade or business activities of -$72,238.

Counsel argues that the submitted evidence establishes the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

Counsel's argument is not persuasive. The petitioner's Form 1120S for the calendar year 2000 shows an ordinary income of -$72,238. The petitioner could not pay a proffered salary of $31,200.00 out of this income.

The petitioner did not submit copies of its federal income tax returns to show that it could pay the proffered wage of $31,200.00 per year for the year of filing, 2001. The petitioner submitted compiled financial statements, not audited financial statements, as cited in the regulation. Without sufficient documentary evidence, the Service cannot find that the petitioner has the ability to pay the beneficiary the wage it offered on the initial I-140 petition.

Accordingly, after a review of the evidence submitted, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered at the time of filing of the petition and continuing to present.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
