FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER, EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a restaurant. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a specialty cook. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the filing date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's filing date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's filing date is January 12, 1998. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $13.75 per hour or $28,600.00 annually.

Counsel initially submitted insufficient evidence of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. On November 25, 2000, the director requested additional evidence to establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage as of January 12, 1998, to include the petitioner's 1998 federal tax return.

In response, counsel submitted a copy of the petitioner's 1998 Form 1120 U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return which reflected gross receipts of $779,897; gross profit of $541,976; compensation of officers of $167,725; salaries and wages paid of $49,162; depreciation of $12,872; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $10,752. Schedule L reflected total current assets of $14,560 with $7,060 in cash and total current liabilities of $22,236.

The director determined that the evidence did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel submits another copy of the petitioner's 1998 federal tax return and argues that the employment of the beneficiary will eliminate the use of independent sub-contractors. Counsel's assertion that the funds paid to independent sub-contractors could be used to pay the beneficiary's salary is not persuasive. These funds were not retained by the petitioner for future use. Instead, these monies were expended on compensating the sub-contractors, and therefore, not readily available for payment of the beneficiary's salary in 1998. Based on the evidence submitted, it cannot be found that the petitioner had sufficient funds available to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage at the time of filing the application for alien employment certification as required by 8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2).

A review of the 1998 federal tax return shows that when one adds the taxable income and the depreciation, the result is $23,624, less than the proffered wage.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax return furnished, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered at the time of filing of the petition.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
