FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann
Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a restaurant. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a specialty cook. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's priority date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's priority date is April 24, 2001. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $11.66 per hour or $24,252.80 per annum.

Counsel initially submitted insufficient evidence of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. On January 7, 2002, the director requested additional evidence of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

In response, counsel submitted a copy of the petitioner's 2000 Schedule C, Profit and Loss from Business Statement which reflected gross receipts of $88,091; gross profit of $37,547; wages of $0; and a net profit of $5,046.

The director determined that the documentation was insufficient to establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel submits a copy of the petitioner's 2001 Form 1040 Schedule C Profit or Loss From Business. Schedule C reflects gross receipts of $129,828; gross profit of $79,365; wages of $0; and a net profit of $13,469.

Counsel argues that:

As a new established business, the petitioner, like any other business in its situation, has been putting additional and fresh capital to the restaurant as the need arises. Fortunately for the petitioner, even in the year 2000, they realized a small profit. The 2000 income tax return of the petitioner indicates that there is a profit of $5,046.00. There was no need to put up additional capitalization at that time, although the petitioner is able and willing to infuse any additional capitalization.

Counsel's argument is not persuasive. The tax return for calendar year 2001 shows net income of $13,469. The petitioner could not pay a salary of $24,252.80 a year out of this income.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax return for 2001, the year of filing of the petition, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered as of the priority date of the petition and continuing to present.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
