Helen E. Crawford for
Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The petitioner is a restaurant. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a cook. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's priority date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's priority date is February 19, 2001. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $20.00 per hour or $41,600.00 per annum.

Counsel submitted a copy of the petitioner's 2000 Form 1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return including Schedule C, Profit and Loss from Business Statement. The petitioner's Form 1040 reflected an adjusted gross income of $41,826. Schedule C reflected gross receipts of $152,722; gross profit of $92,317; wages of $24,148; and a net profit of $25,766.

The director determined that the evidence did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly. The director noted that the priority date of the petition was February 19, 2001.

On appeal, the petitioner states that:

2. I think I have sufficient financial capacity to pay the alien cook and expand my business. Besides my family income in last series 3 years were more than $50,000, the deposit of $63,000 in the bank is much enough to pay the alien cook's annual salary, also, the bank financial support is no problem to be received by me. The bank's loan specialist always asks me to apply for business loan due to my creditable ability of pay-back. This is a non-risk investment which surely gains good profit from the expansion of my business. If you need the bank's support document, I can provide you any time.

The petitioner's Form 1040 for calendar years 2000 and 2001 shows an adjusted gross income of $41,826 and $44,602 respectively. The petitioner could pay a proffered salary of $41,600.00 out of this income.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax returns, it is concluded that the petitioner has established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered as of the priority date of the petition and continuing to present.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
