Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The petitioner is an aircraft maintenance and repair company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as an aircraft mechanic. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief and additional evidence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's priority date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's priority date is September 6, 2000. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $35,000.00 per annum.

Counsel submitted a letter from the petitioner's accountant which explained that F&E Miami is a wholly owned subsidiary of F&E Aviation Holdings, a copy of the 1999 tax return for F&E Aviation Holdings, and a copy of the beneficiary's W-2 Wage and Tax Statement which showed he was paid $40,971.44 in 2000.

The director determined that the evidence submitted did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel submits a copy of the beneficiary's W-2 Wage and Tax Statement which shows he was paid $38,020.93 in 2001 and argues that this should be sufficient evidence that the petitioner has the ability to pay the wage offered.

Counsel's argument is persuasive. The petitioner has demonstrated its ability to pay the wage offered.

Accordingly, after a review of the evidence submitted, it is concluded that the petitioner has established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered as of the priority date of the petition.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
