Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be rejected.

The beneficiary, who is employed by [REDACTED] filed the present petition on his own behalf. The beneficiary seeks classification as an other worker pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1153(b)(3)(A)(iii). The director denied the immigrant visa petition because the beneficiary signed the petition instead of the United States employer. The director further noted that no evidence of the ability to pay the proffered wage or evidence that the certificate had met the requirements of the job had been submitted.

An alien may not self-petition under this visa classification. As stated at 8 C.F.R. 204.5(c), "[a]ny United States employer desiring and intending to employ an alien may file a petition for classification under section . . . 203(b)(3) of the Act."

Furthermore, 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii) states in pertinent part:

In addition, the Associate Commissioner for Examinations exercises appellate jurisdiction over decisions on;

* * *

(B) Petitions for immigrant visa classification based on employment or as a special immigrant or entrepreneur under §§ 204.5 and 204.6 of this chapter except when the denial is based upon lack of a certification by the Secretary of Labor under section 212(a)(5)(A) of the Act

As there is no appeal available when a decision is based on a lack of labor certification, this appeal must be rejected.

ORDER: The appeal is rejected.
