Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a restaurant. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a cook. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a statement and indicates that a separate brief and/or evidence is being submitted within thirty days. To date, however, no further documentation has been received. Therefore, a decision will be made based on the record as it is presently constituted.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's priority date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's priority date is November 25, 1997. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $18.89 per hour or $39,291.20 per annum.

Counsel submitted a copy of the petitioner's 1996 Form 1120 U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return and copies of the first page of the petitioner's 1997, 1998, and 1999 Form 1120. The tax return for 1997 reflected gross receipts of $129,486; gross profit of $69,304; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $19,362; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of -$3,787.

The tax return for 1998 reflected gross receipts of $136,834; gross profit of $77,120; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $16,500; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of -$590. The tax return for 1999 reflected gross receipts of $111,863; gross profit of $63,577; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $14,400; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of -$1,762.

The director determined that the evidence submitted did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel merely states that "[t]he INS though (sic) its officer, abused his discretion in finding that the Petitioner had not met it (sic) burden of establishing that it had the ability to pay the offered wage.

The petitioner's Form 1120 for calendar year 1997 shows a taxable income of -$3,787. The petitioner could not pay a proffered wage of $39,291.20 a year out of this income.

In addition, the tax returns for 1998 and 1999 continue to show an inability to pay the wage offered.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax returns submitted, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered as of the priority date of the petition.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
