DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner is a church. It seeks to classify the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as an evangelist and religious translator. The director denied the petition on July 10, 2003.

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) states, in pertinent part, “[a]n officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.”

On the Form I-290B Notice of Appeal, filed on August 12, 2003, the petitioner indicated that a brief and/or evidence would be forthcoming within thirty days. The statement on the appeal form listing the reason for the appeal reads, “We have additional evidence pertaining to this case and would like to submit it.”

To date, ten months later, careful review of the record reveals no subsequent submission; all other documentation in the record predates the issuance of the notice of decision. As the petitioner does not claim that any of the director’s findings are incorrect or based on an erroneous conclusion of law, the petitioner has failed to overcome the specific findings of the director. Thus, in the absence of any allegation detailing specific errors made by the director as well as the failure to submit any further evidence, we cannot find that the petitioner’s submission qualifies as a substantive appeal.

Accordingly, the regulations mandate the summary dismissal of the appeal.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
