Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner is a school that seeks classification of the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the "Act"), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4).

The center director denied the petition in a decision dated January 17, 2002, finding that the proffered position of a co-worker and houseparent had not been established to be a qualifying religious occupation pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(m)(2). The director further concluded that the petitioner had not established that it was a qualifying religious organization pursuant to section 501(c)(3) and section 170(b)(1)(A)(vi) of the Internal Revenue Code, or that the beneficiary had been continuously employed in a religious vocation or occupation for at least the two year period immediately prior to the filing of the petition pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(m)(1).

Counsel for the petitioner timely filed a Form I-290B Notice of Appeal asserting that the director erred in the decision and indicating that a brief would be submitted within thirty days on or before March 15, 2002. As of this date, however, no brief has been received and the record will be considered complete as presently constituted.

Regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) state, in pertinent part:

An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.

Inasmuch as the petitioner has failed to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or a statement of fact for the appeal, the appeal must be summarily dismissed.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, the petitioner has not sustained that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
