Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a non-profit religious organization. It seeks classification of the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the "Act"), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), in order to employ her as a minister.

The director denied the petition finding that the petitioner failed to establish that beneficiary had two years of continuous experience in a religious occupation.

On appeal, the petitioner's presiding elder addressed the director's findings and submitted additional documentation.

Section 203(b)(4) of the Act provides classification to qualified special immigrant religious workers as described in section 101(a)(27)(C) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C), which pertains to an immigrant who:

(i) for at least 2 years immediately preceding the time of application for admission, has been a member of a religious denomination having a bona fide nonprofit, religious organization in the United States;

(ii) seeks to enter the United States--

(I) solely for the purpose of carrying on the vocation of a minister of that religious denomination,

(II) before October 1, 2003, in order to work for the organization at the request of the organization in a professional capacity in a religious vocation or occupation, or

(III) before October 1, 2003, in order to work for the organization (or for a bona fide organization which is affiliated with the religious denomination and is exempt from taxation as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Code of 1986) at the request of the organization in a religious vocation or occupation; and

(iii) has been carrying on such vocation, professional work, or other work continuously for at least the 2-year period described in clause (i).

The petitioner operates religious outreach services to third world countries through centers it establishes. The beneficiary is a native and citizen of Ghana.

In order to establish eligibility for classification as a special immigrant religious worker, the petitioner must satisfy each of several eligibility requirements.

The issue to be addressed in this proceeding is whether the beneficiary has had the requisite two years of continuous experience in a religious occupation.

Regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(m)(1) state, in pertinent part, that:

All three types of religious workers must have been performing the vocation, professional work, or other work continuously (either abroad or in the United States) for at least the two year period immediately preceding the filing of the petition.

The petition was filed on March 28, 2001. Therefore, the petitioner must establish that the beneficiary was continuously carrying on a religious occupation since at least March 28, 1999.

In this case the petitioner asserted that the beneficiary has been employed by it since 1996. However, the petitioner failed to submit sufficient proof of this claim, such as pay statements, tax records or other detailed employment verification documents. In response to the Bureau's request for additional evidence and again on appeal, the petitioner submits a payroll journal reflecting salary payment to the beneficiary from January 2000 to December 2001. The record does not, however, contain any corroborating evidence that the beneficiary was employed from March 1999 to January 2000. Simply going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. See Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg. Comm. 1972). Accordingly, it cannot be concluded that the petitioner has overcome the director's objection. For this reason, the petition may not be approved.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, the petitioner has not sustained that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
