

identifying data deleted to prevent clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy

U.S. Department of Homeland Security
20 Mass. Ave., N.W., Rm. A3042
Washington, DC 20529

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services

PUBLIC COPY

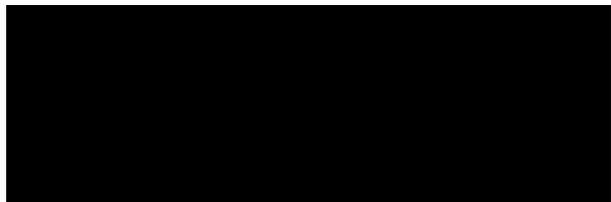

DI

FILE: EAC 03 042 50410 Office: VERMONT SERVICE CENTER Date: SEP 21 2005

IN RE: Petitioner:
Beneficiary:

PETITION: Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker Pursuant to Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The service center director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed. The petition will be denied.

The petitioner is a childcare center and seeks to employ the beneficiary as a preschool teacher. The petitioner endeavors to classify the beneficiary as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b).

The director denied the petition because the proffered position does not qualify as a specialty occupation. On appeal, counsel submits a brief indicating that the offered position qualifies as a specialty occupation.

The issue to be discussed in this proceeding is whether the proffered position qualifies as a specialty occupation.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b), provides, in part, for the classification of qualified nonimmigrant aliens who are coming temporarily to the United States to perform services in a specialty occupation.

Section 214(i)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(i)(1), defines the term "specialty occupation" as an occupation that requires:

- (A) theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and
- (B) attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

The term "specialty occupation" is further defined at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii) as:

[A]n occupation which requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge in fields of human endeavor including, but not limited to, architecture, engineering, mathematics, physical sciences, social sciences, medicine and health, education, business specialties, accounting, law, theology, and the arts, and which requires the attainment of a bachelor's degree or higher in a specific specialty, or its equivalent, as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A), to qualify as a specialty occupation, the position must meet one of the following criteria:

- (1) A baccalaureate or higher degree or its equivalent is normally the minimum requirement for entry into the particular position;
- (2) The degree requirement is common to the industry in parallel positions among similar organizations or, in the alternative, an employer may show that its particular position is so complex or unique that it can be performed only by an individual with a degree;

- (3) The employer normally requires a degree or its equivalent for the position; or
- (4) The nature of the specific duties are so specialized and complex that knowledge required to perform the duties is usually associated with the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree.

Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) interprets the term "degree" in the criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) to mean not just any baccalaureate or higher degree, but one in a specific specialty that is directly related to the proffered position.

The record of proceeding before the AAO contains: (1) the Form I-129 and supporting documentation; (2) the director's request for additional evidence; (3) the petitioner's response to the director's request; (4) the director's denial letter; and (5) the Form I-290B with counsel's brief. The AAO reviewed the record in its entirety before issuing its decision.

The petitioner is seeking the beneficiary's services as a preschool teacher. Evidence of the beneficiary's duties includes the I-129 petition with attachment and the petitioner's response to the director's request for evidence. According to this evidence the beneficiary would:

- Prepare lesson plans for three year old children;
- Administer the classroom;
- Accompany children on field trips and in community service activities;
- Meet with parents of students; and
- Attend faculty meetings and other school functions.

The petitioner requires a minimum of a bachelor's degree for entry into the proffered position, but does not require the degree to be in any specific specialty.

Upon review of the record, the petitioner has failed to establish that the proffered position qualifies as a specialty occupation. The AAO routinely consults the Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook (Handbook) for information about the duties and educational requirements of particular occupations. The duties of the proffered position are essentially those noted for preschool/kindergarten teachers in a private school setting. The Handbook notes that all 50 States and the District of Columbia require public school teachers to be licensed. Licensure, however, is not required for teachers in private schools. All States require public school general education teachers to have a bachelor's degree and to have completed an approved teacher training program with a prescribed number of subject and education credits, as well as supervised practice teaching. The education and teacher training requirements, however, do not apply to teachers in private school settings.

In this instance, the petitioner indicates that it receives government funding under the Abbott program in New Jersey. On May 21, 1998, the New Jersey Supreme Court mandated that three and four-year-old children in New Jersey's "Abbott districts" – the 30 highest poverty districts in the state, receive a high-quality preschool education. As a result of that mandate, certain requirements were enacted with respect to the educational qualifications of preschool teachers. The record indicates that all new teachers hired in Abbott districts must possess the Preschool through Grade 3 (P-3) endorsement. To qualify for the P-3 endorsement, candidates must possess, at a minimum, a bachelor's degree with a 2.50 grade point average, pass a state test when identified, and complete a state-approved preparation program at one of the state's colleges or universities. The record further indicates that in order to work as a teacher, applicants are required to obtain a certificate of eligibility (CE), which requires a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited college or university, with an academic major in liberal arts (English, psychology, math, sociology, etc.) or pure science subject (biology, chemistry, etc.). The degree requirement for licensing/certification does not, however, qualify the proffered position as a specialty occupation under the first criterion of 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) as a degree in a specific specialty is not required. Degrees in such unrelated disciplines as psychology and chemistry will suffice.

The petitioner asserts that a degree requirement is common to the industry in parallel positions among similar organizations, and in support of that assertion notes that all teachers in the Abbott program are required by law to have a bachelor's degree in liberal arts or a pure science subject. As previously noted, however, CIS interprets the term "degree" in the criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) to mean not just any baccalaureate or higher degree, but one in a specific specialty that is directly related to the proffered position. Certification for Abbott district teachers requires applicants to have degrees in such diverse and unrelated disciplines as liberal arts or science, not in a specific educational discipline. The petitioner further submitted three job advertisements for preschool teachers in support of the above mentioned assertion. Two of those advertisements indicate that a bachelor's degree is required, but do not state that the degree need be in any particular discipline. The third states that a master's degree in early childhood education is preferred, but does not state that any particular degree in a specific specialty is required. The petitioner has failed to satisfy the referenced criterion at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A)(2).

The petitioner asserts that it normally requires a degree for the offered position, and in support of this assertion submits a listing of its teachers and their educational credentials. Independent proof of the actual degrees held by the teachers was not provided. The documentation submitted indicated that one teacher held a master's degree, with the remainder holding bachelor's degrees. The documentation does not, however, establish that the petitioner normally requires a degree in any particular educational discipline for entry into its teaching positions. Simply going on the record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm. 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N 190 (Reg. Comm. 1972)). Further, CIS must examine the ultimate employment of the alien, and determine whether the position qualifies as a specialty occupation. Cf. Defensor v. Meissner, 201 F. 3d 384 (5th Cir. 2000). The critical element is not the title of the position or an employer's self-imposed standards, but whether the position actually requires the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree in the specific specialty as the minimum for entry into the occupation as required by the Act.¹ To interpret the regulations any other way would lead to absurd results: if CIS were limited to reviewing a petitioner's self-imposed employment requirements, then any alien with a bachelor's degree could be brought into the United States to perform menial, non-professional, or an otherwise non-specialty occupation, so long as the employer required all such employees to have baccalaureate or higher degrees. See id at 388. The petitioner has not established the criterion at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A)(3).

The nature of the specific duties is not so specialized or complex that knowledge required to perform them is usually associated with the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree in a specific specialty, nor are the duties so complex or unique that they can be performed only by individuals with a degree in a specific specialty. The duties to be performed are routine in the industry for preschool teachers. The petitioner has failed to establish either of the referenced criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A)(2) or (4).

Finally, the petitioner's reference to the Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT), and approval of an unrelated petition by the AAO for a preschool teacher, will not satisfy the petitioner's burden of proof in these proceedings. The DOT's classification of particular occupations does not establish that any particular job qualifies as a specialty occupation, or that any particular degree is required to enter into the listed occupation. With regard to the prior petition approval referenced, this record of proceeding does not contain the entire record of proceeding in the petition referred to by counsel. Accordingly, no comparison of the positions can be made. Each nonimmigrant petition is a separate proceeding with a separate record. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.8(d). In making a determination of statutory eligibility, the AAO is limited to the information contained in the record of proceeding. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(16)(ii). It warrants noting that Congress intended this visa classification for aliens that are to be employed in an occupation that requires the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge. Congress specifically stated that such an occupation would require, as a minimum qualification, a baccalaureate or higher degree in the specialty. CIS regularly approves H-1B petitions for qualified aliens who are to be employed as engineers, computer scientists, certified public accountants, college professors, and other such professions. These occupations all require a baccalaureate degree in the specialty occupation as a minimum for entry into the occupation and fairly represent the types of professions that Congress contemplated when it created that visa category. In the present matter, the petitioner has offered the beneficiary a position as a preschool teacher. For the reasons discussed above, the proffered position does not require attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree in a specific specialty as a minimum for entry into the occupation, and approval of a petition for another beneficiary based on identical facts would constitute material error, gross error, and a violation of 8 C.F.R. § 214.2 paragraph (h).

The petitioner has failed to establish that the offered position meets any of the criteria listed at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A). Accordingly, the AAO shall not disturb the director's denial of the petition.

¹ The court in Defensor v. Meissner observed that the four criteria at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) present certain ambiguities when compared to the statutory definition, and "might also be read as merely an additional requirement that a position must meet, in addition to the statutory and regulatory definition." See id. at 387.

EAC 03 042 50410

Page 6

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not sustained that burden and the appeal shall accordingly be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. The petition is denied.