FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER, EXAMINATIONS

Myra L. Rose
for Robert P. Wiemann, Acting Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is an individual who desires to employ the beneficiary as an interior designer for one year. The Department of Labor determined that a temporary certification by the Secretary of Labor could not be made. The director determined a temporary need for the beneficiary's services had not been established.

On appeal, counsel states that the Service's decision should be reversed. Additional evidence has been submitted with the appeal.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii), defines an H-2B temporary worker as:

an alien...having a residence in a foreign country which he has no intention of abandoning, who is coming temporarily to the United States to perform other temporary service or labor if unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country, but this clause shall not apply to graduates of medical schools coming to the United States to perform services as members of the medical profession....

Matter of Artee Corp., 18 I&N Dec. 366 (Comm. 1982), as codified in current regulations at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii), specified that the test for determining whether an alien is coming "temporarily" to the United States to "perform temporary services or labor" is whether the need of the petitioner for the duties to be performed is temporary. It is the nature of the need, not the nature of the duties, that is controlling. See 55 Fed. Reg. 2616 (1990).

As a general rule, the period of the petitioner's need must be a year or less, although there may be extraordinary circumstances where the temporary services or labor might last longer than one year. The petitioner's need for the services or labor must be a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B).

The petition does not indicate whether the employment is a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. The petition also does not state whether the temporary need is unpredictable, periodic or recurring annually.

The nontechnical description of the job on the Application for Alien Employment Certification (Form ETA 750) reads "plan, design, and furnish interior environment of the newly constructed house using Ukrainian motives in decoration. Determine budget, equipment to be installed, plan overall interior and decorative elements. Purchase furniture, decorative accessories, carpets, wallpaper, coordinate contractors' work."

The petitioner has not established that he has actually purchased a home. Absent such evidence, the petitioner has not shown that a temporary event of short duration has created the need for a temporary worker. Further, the petition indicates that the services of the beneficiary are needed for one year and that an annual salary of $43,123 will be paid. The petitioner has not established that his need for the beneficiary's services is a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. The petitioner has not demonstrated that the nature of its need for an interior designer is temporary.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. Here, the petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
