FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER, EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the director and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a senior housing facility with 76 employees and a gross annual income of $256,767. It seeks to employ the beneficiary as a social worker for a period of three years. The director determined the petitioner had not established that the beneficiary was qualified to practice as a social worker at the time of the filing of the instant petition.

On appeal, the petitioner's director of human resources submits additional information.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b), provides in part for nonimmigrant classification to qualified aliens who are coming temporarily to the United States to perform services in a specialty occupation. Section 214(i)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1184(i)(1), defines a "specialty occupation" as an occupation that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to section 214(i)(2) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1184(i)(2), to qualify as an alien coming to perform services in a specialty occupation the beneficiary must hold full state licensure to practice in the occupation, if such licensure is required to practice in the occupation. In addition, the beneficiary must have completed the degree required for the occupation, or have experience in the specialty equivalent to the completion of such degree and recognition of expertise in the specialty through progressively responsible positions relating to the specialty.

8 C.F.R. 103.2(b)(12) states that an application or petition shall be denied where evidence submitted in response to a request for initial evidence does not establish filing eligibility at the time the application or petition was filed.

The director denied the petition because the beneficiary's social worker license was issued almost four months after the filing of the instant petition. On appeal, the petitioner's director of human resources states, in part, that neither the State of Colorado nor the petitioner requires licensure. She further states that the beneficiary's master's degree in social work, her certificate in gerontology, and her relevant employment experience qualify her for the proffered position.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(C), to qualify to perform services in a specialty occupation, the alien must meet one of the following criteria:

1. Hold a United States baccalaureate or higher degree required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university;
2. Hold a foreign degree determined to be equivalent to a United States baccalaureate or higher degree required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university;
3. Hold an unrestricted State license, registration, or certification which authorizes him or her to fully practice the specialty occupation and be immediately engaged in that specialty in the state of intended employment; or
4. Have education, specialized training, and/or progressively responsible experience that is equivalent to completion of a United States baccalaureate or higher degree in the specialty occupation and have recognition of expertise in the specialty through progressively responsible positions directly related to the specialty.

The beneficiary holds a master's degree in social work and a certificate in gerontology conferred by U.S. institutions. A review of the Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook, 2002-2003 edition, at page 162, finds that a bachelor's degree in social work is the most common minimum requirement to qualify for a job as a social worker. All States and the District of Columbia have licensing, certification, or registration requirements regarding the use of professional titles and social work practice. Although the petitioner's director of human resources states that neither the State of Colorado nor the petitioner requires licensure for its social workers, information found at The Official Colorado State Website, <http://www.state.co.us/dhr/select/docs/mqs/mqC4L.pdf>, indicates that the requirements for a social worker in the State of Colorado are a bachelor's degree in social work or a related field and a Registered Social Worker (RSW) license. (Emphasis added.) As such, the information provided by the petitioner's director of human resources conflicts with the information found at The Official Colorado State Website. In view of the foregoing, the petitioner has not persuasively established that the beneficiary was qualified to practice as a social worker at the time of the filing of the instant petition.

Doubt cast on any aspect of the petitioner's proof may lead to a reevaluation of the reliability and sufficiency of the remaining evidence offered in support of the visa petition. Further, it is incumbent on the petitioner to resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent objective evidence, and attempts to explain or reconcile such inconsistencies, absent competent objective evidence pointing to where the truth, in fact, lies will not suffice. Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. 582. (Comm. 1988).

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not sustained that burden. Accordingly, the decision of the director will not be disturbed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
