FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the director and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a computer consulting business with 18 employees and a gross annual income of $300,000. It seeks to employ the beneficiary as a computer consultant for a period of three years. The director determined the petitioner had not established that the beneficiary is qualified to perform the duties of a specialty occupation.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b), provides in part for nonimmigrant classification to qualified aliens who are coming temporarily to the United States to perform services in a specialty occupation. Section 214(i)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1184(i)(1), defines a "specialty occupation" as an occupation that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to section 214(i)(2) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1184(i)(2), to qualify as an alien coming to perform services in a specialty occupation the beneficiary must hold full state licensure to practice in the occupation, if such licensure is required to practice in the occupation. In addition, the beneficiary must have completed the degree required for the occupation, or have experience in the specialty equivalent to the completion of such degree and recognition of expertise in the specialty through progressively responsible positions relating to the specialty.

The director denied the petition because the petitioner had not demonstrated that the beneficiary's training courses were college/university-level training, or that the beneficiary had received recognition of expertise in the specialty occupation. On appeal, counsel submits additional evidence to demonstrate recognition of the beneficiary's expertise in the specialty occupation.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(C), to qualify to perform services in a specialty occupation, the alien must meet one of the following criteria:

1. Hold a United States baccalaureate or higher degree required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university;

2. Hold a foreign degree determined to be equivalent to a United States baccalaureate or higher degree required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university;
3. Hold an unrestricted State license, registration, or certification which authorizes him or her to fully practice the specialty occupation and be immediately engaged in that specialty in the state of intended employment; or
4. Have education, specialized training, and/or progressively responsible experience that is equivalent to completion of a United States baccalaureate or higher degree in the specialty occupation and have recognition of expertise in the specialty through progressively responsible positions directly related to the specialty.

In a letter dated April 27, 2001, the petitioner's president states that the beneficiary completed a three-year bachelor of arts degree in an Indian institution. A credentials evaluation service also found that the beneficiary completed a three-year bachelor's degree with a concentration in economics and political science. The evaluator concluded that the beneficiary's education was equivalent to three years of undergraduate social science credit from an accredited college or university in the United States. In addition, the petitioner's president states that the beneficiary has extensive computer training as well as three years of computer-related employment. The credentials evaluator concluded that the beneficiary's foreign education, training, and employment experience are the equivalent of a bachelor of arts degree in computer science from an accredited college or university in the United States.

This Service uses an independent evaluation of a person's foreign credentials in terms of education in the United States as an advisory opinion only. Where an evaluation is not in accord with previous equivalencies or is in any way questionable, it may be rejected or given less weight. See Matter of Sea, Inc., 19 I&N Dec. 817 (Comm. 1988).

Here, the evaluation of the beneficiary's foreign credentials is based on education, training, and experience. Although the petitioner's president and the evaluator state that the beneficiary holds a bachelor of arts degree conferred by an Indian institution, the evidence in the record shows only that the beneficiary took parts I, II, and III of the bachelor of arts examination. It is noted that the evaluator based his conclusion entirely on such examination documents. The record, however, does not contain a copy of the beneficiary's bachelor of arts degree, nor does the record contain copies of the beneficiary's university transcripts. For this reason, as well as for additional reasons discussed below, the evaluator's finding is accorded little weight.

The record also contains evidence of the beneficiary's computer training from various Indian vocational schools, as well as employment letters indicating that the beneficiary worked as a network support engineer for approximately three and one half years and a system administrator for approximately seven months. On appeal, counsel submits letters of recommendation from the beneficiary's foreign employers as well as additional information pertaining to the beneficiary's qualifications, all of which have been reviewed. Although counsel argues that such evidence, combined with the credentials evaluation, demonstrates that the beneficiary qualifies for the proffered position, the record does not contain any corroborating evidence to support such claim such as an evaluation from an official who has authority to grant college-level credit for training and/or experience in the specialty at an accredited college or university which has a program for granting such credit based on an individual's training and/or work experience, as required by 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(D)(1).

The beneficiary is not a member of any organizations whose usual prerequisite for entry is a baccalaureate degree in a specialized area. The record contains no evidence that the beneficiary holds a state license, registration, or certification which authorizes him to practice a specialty occupation. In view of the foregoing, it is concluded that the petitioner has not demonstrated that the beneficiary is qualified to perform services in a specialty occupation.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not sustained that burden. Accordingly, the decision of the director will not be disturbed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
