Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the director and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a software consulting services business with 20 employees and an approximate gross annual income of $6.5 million. It seeks to employ the beneficiary as a computer programmer for an approximate period of three years. The director determined the petitioner had not provided a contract between the petitioner and its client, [REDACTED], the site where the beneficiary would provide computer-programming services. The director further found that the petitioner had not established that it had complied with the conditions of the labor condition application, as the address on the labor condition application is Cupertino, CA, which is not the address of either the petitioner or Electronics for Imaging, Inc. The director further found that the petitioner had not established that the beneficiary is eligible for any further extensions beyond the six-year limit.

On appeal, the petitioner submits additional information.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b), provides in part for nonimmigrant classification to qualified aliens who are coming temporarily to the United States to perform services in a specialty occupation. Section 214(i)(1) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(i)(1), defines a "specialty occupation" as an occupation that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to section 214(i)(2) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1184(i)(2), to qualify as an alien coming to perform services in a specialty occupation the beneficiary must hold full state licensure to practice in the occupation, if such licensure is required to practice in the occupation. In addition, the beneficiary must have completed the degree required for the occupation, or have experience in the specialty equivalent to the completion of such degree and recognition of expertise in the specialty through progressively responsible positions relating to the specialty.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(2)(i)(F), Agents as petitioners:

A United States agent may file a petition in cases involving workers who are traditionally self-employed or workers who use agents to arrange short-term employment on their behalf with numerous employers, and in cases where a foreign employer authorizes the agent to act on its behalf. A United States agent may be: the actual employer of the beneficiary, the representative of both the employer and the beneficiary, or, a person or entity authorized by the employer to act for, in place of, the employer as its agent. A petition filed by a United States agent is subject to the following conditions;

(1) An agent performing the function of an employer must guarantee the wages and other terms and conditions of employment by contractual agreement with the beneficiary or beneficiaries of the petition. The agent/employer must also provide an itinerary of definite employment and information on any other services planned for the period of time requested.

(2) A person or company in business as an agent may file the H petition involving multiple employers as the representative of both the employers and the beneficiary or beneficiaries if the supporting documentation includes a complete itinerary of services or engagements. The itinerary shall specify the dates of each service or engagement, the names and addresses of the actual employers, and the names and addresses of the establishment, venues, or locations where the services will be performed. In questionable cases, a contract between the employers and the beneficiary or beneficiaries may be required. The burden is on the agent to explain the terms and conditions of the employment and to provide any required documentation.

(3) A foreign employer, who, through a United States agent, files a petition for an H nonimmigrant alien is responsible for complying with all of the employer sanctions provisions of section 274A of the Act and 8 C.F.R. part 274a.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h) (4) (ii):

United States employer means a person, firm, corporation, contractor, or other association, or organization in the United States which:

(1) Engages a person to work within the United States;

(2) Has an employer-employee relationship with respect to employees under this part, as indicated by the fact that it may hire, pay, fire, supervise, or otherwise control the work of any such employee; and

(3) Has an Internal Revenue Service Tax identification number.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(2)(i)(B):

A petition which requires services to be performed or training to be received in more than one location must include an itinerary with the dates and locations of the services or training

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iv)(B), an H-1B petition involving a specialty occupation shall be accompanied by:

Copies of any written contracts between the petitioner and beneficiary, or a summary of the terms of the oral agreement under which the beneficiary will be employed, if there is no written contract.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(9)(i), the director shall consider all the evidence submitted and such other evidence as he or she may independently require to assist his or her adjudication. (Emphasis added.)

Further, in a Bureau memorandum entitled "Supporting Documentation for H-1B Petitions," dated November 13, 1995, it states as follows:

Requests for contracts should be made only in those cases where the officer can articulate a specific need for such documentation.

On appeal, the petitioner's chief operating officer states, in part, as follows:

[REDACTED] does not have a direct relationship with [REDACTED] but is a sub contractor to [REDACTED]. The Prime Contractor in this case is [REDACTED]. We have attached the Contract and Purchase Order between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] for providing services at [REDACTED]. Since the contract between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] is confidential information that pertains to those two parties [REDACTED] does not have access to that information.

The record contains a summary of the terms of employment indicating that the petitioner has hired the beneficiary and will pay the beneficiary's salary. Although the record may demonstrate that the petitioner and beneficiary share an employer-employee relationship, as with employment agencies as petitioners, the Bureau must examine the ultimate employment of the alien, and determine whether the position qualifies as a specialty occupation. Cf. Defensor v. Meissner, 201 F.3d 384 (5th Cir. 2000). The critical element is not whether the petitioner is an employer or an agent, but whether the position actually requires the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and the attainment of a bachelor's degree in the specific specialty as the minimum for entry into the occupation as required by the Act.¹ To interpret the regulations any other way would lead to absurd results: if the Bureau was limited to reviewing a petitioner's self-imposed employment requirements, then any alien with a bachelor's degree could be brought into the United States to perform a menial, non-professional, or an otherwise non-specialty occupation, so long as the employer required all such employees to have bachelor's degrees. See id. at 388.

In this case, as the beneficiary would perform the duties of a computer programmer at [REDACTED] The record, however, does not contain a contract for this worksite. It is also noted that the record does not contain a comprehensive description of the beneficiary's proposed duties from an authorized representative of the petitioner's subcontractor's client where the beneficiary will ultimately perform the proposed duties. Without such description, the petitioner has not demonstrated that the proffered position meets the statutory definition of specialty occupation. For this reason, the petition may not be approved.

Bureau regulations specifically allow a director to request additional evidence in appropriate cases, as the Bureau may reasonably inquire about a job contract between a petitioner and its client if a beneficiary will be performing services at client sites. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(8). The director properly requested the above listed contract. Absent a contract of a project where the beneficiary would work, however, the petitioner has not persuasively demonstrated that a specialty occupation exists for the beneficiary, or that it has complied with the terms of the labor condition application. It is additionally noted that the petitioner's labor condition application does not reflect the beneficiary's work location. For these additional reasons the petition may not be approved.

¹ The court in Defensor v. Meissner observed that the four criteria at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) present certain ambiguities when compared to the statutory definition, and "might also be read as merely an additional requirement that a position must meet, in addition to the statutory and regulatory definition." Supra at 387.

Beyond the decision of the director, the petitioner has not demonstrated that the beneficiary is qualified to perform the duties of a specialty occupation. The record as it is presently constituted, does not contain an evaluation of the beneficiary's credentials from a service that specializes in evaluating foreign educational credentials, as required by 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(D)(3). As this matter will be dismissed on the grounds discussed, this issue need not be examined further.

As the petitioner has not sufficiently established that the proffered position is a specialty occupation, or that the petitioner has complied with the terms of the labor condition application, or that the beneficiary is qualified to perform the duties of a specialty occupation, the issue of whether the beneficiary is entitled to any further extensions need not be examined further in this proceeding.

In view of the foregoing, it is concluded that the petitioner has not demonstrated that the proffered position is a specialty occupation within the meaning of the regulations.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not sustained that burden. Accordingly, the decision of the director will not be disturbed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
