IN RE: Petitioner:
Beneficiary:

PETITION: Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker Pursuant to Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained. The petition will be approved.

The petitioner is a recruitment and staffing agency that seeks to employ the beneficiary as a physical therapist for one or more of its client organizations. The petitioner, therefore, endeavors to classify the beneficiary as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b).

The record of proceeding before the AAO contains (1) the Form I-129 and supporting documentation; (2) the director's request for additional evidence; (3) the petitioner's response to the director's request for evidence; (4) the director's denial letter; and (5) the Form I-290B and supporting documentation. The AAO reviewed the record in its entirety before issuing its decision.

The director denied the petition on the basis of his determination that the beneficiary was not maintaining valid nonimmigrant status at the time the petition was filed, because the beneficiary was not licensed to practice physical therapy from the time of entry on October 31, 2003 until August 11, 2004, when she received her license, and that the certified labor condition application (LCA) contained in the record was not valid for the location of intended employment.

In his denial, the director also looked beyond the record of proceeding. Noting that the petitioner currently employs eight accountants, the director stated that "[i]t is questionable that a company of your size and scope would require the services of such a large accounting staff performing virtually identical duties." The director also denied the petition—citing section 274C(a) of the Act—because Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) was unable to make a determination of the "validity of any positions offered or claims made, or the authenticity of any documents submitted by [the petitioner]" due to "the large number of obvious and intentional alterations to various documents submitted by [the petitioner] as well as a number of misleading statements made by [the petitioner]." In particular, the director found that "contracts between [the petitioner] and the beneficiary as well as pay statements for several beneficiaries...had been obviously altered" to remove sponsorship or filing fee deductions. The director also noted inconsistencies in the number of employees the petitioner listed in the various petitions it had filed and in income tax statements submitted with those petitions. Finally, the director found that the petitioner made "false and misleading statements" in petitions it filed for "in-house accountants" concerning the number of accountants working for the petitioner.

As a preliminary matter, the AAO finds that the director erred in denying the petition on the basis of evidence not in the record of proceeding and without giving the petitioner an opportunity to address the reasons for denial. Each petition filing is a separate proceeding with a separate record. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.8(d). In making a determination of statutory eligibility, CIS is limited to the information contained in the record of proceeding. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(16)(ii). Furthermore, 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(16)(i) requires the director to advise the petitioner "if a decision will be adverse to the...petitioner and is based on derogatory information considered by the Service and of which the...petitioner is unaware", and give the petitioner "an opportunity to rebut the information in his/her own behalf before the decision is rendered." The director's May 12, 2005 request for additional evidence did not give the petitioner adequate notice of the director's intention to deny the petition on the basis of misrepresentations or alteration of documents or provide for the opportunity to rebut this information.

Also, the AAO agrees with counsel that the certified LCA contained in the record is valid for the location of intended employment. It finds that Hackensack, New Jersey is within the “the area of normal commuting distance” of New York, New York as defined at 20 C.F.R. § 655.715.

Section 214(i)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1184(i)(1), defines the term “specialty occupation” as an occupation that requires:

- (A) theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and
- (B) attainment of a bachelor’s or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

The term “specialty occupation” is further defined at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii) as:

[A]n occupation which requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge in fields of human endeavor including, but not limited to, architecture, engineering, mathematics, physical sciences, social sciences, medicine and health, education, business specialties, accounting, law, theology, and the arts, and which requires the attainment of a bachelor’s degree or higher in a specific specialty, or its equivalent, as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A), to qualify as a specialty occupation, the position must meet one of the following criteria:

- (1) A baccalaureate or higher degree or its equivalent is normally the minimum requirement for entry into the particular position;
- (2) The degree requirement is common to the industry in parallel positions among similar organizations or, in the alternative, an employer may show that its particular position is so complex or unique that it can be performed only by an individual with a degree;
- (3) The employer normally requires a degree or its equivalent for the position; or
- (4) The nature of the specific duties is so specialized and complex that knowledge required to perform the duties is usually associated with the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree.

CIS interprets the term “degree” in the criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A) to mean not just any baccalaureate or higher degree, but one in a specific specialty that is directly related to the proposed position.

The duties described by the petitioner indicate that the proposed position is that of a physical therapist, which normally qualifies for classification as a specialty occupation. Although the evidence of record establishes that the petitioner, in general, is an employment contractor in that it places individuals at multiple locations to perform services established by contractual agreements for third-party companies, the petitioner has submitted an itinerary of services to be performed for the period time requested on the petition.

Accordingly, the proposed position qualifies for classification as a specialty occupation.

The AAO next turns to the question of the beneficiary's qualifications to perform the duties of a specialty occupation. In his denial, the director noted the fact that the beneficiary did not acquire licensure to practice physical therapy until August 11, 2004, which was nine months after her previous H-1B petition was approved on November 11, 2003. Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(v), if the State requires licensure in order to work in the specialty occupation, the beneficiary must possess the license prior to approval of the H-1B petition:

- (A) General. If an occupation requires a state or local license for an individual to fully perform the duties of the occupation, an alien (except an H-1C nurse) seeking H classification in that occupation must have that license prior to approval of the petition to be found qualified to enter the United States and immediately engage in employment in the occupation.
- (B) Temporary licensure. If a temporary license is available and the alien is allowed to perform the duties of the occupation without a permanent license, the director shall examine the nature of the duties, the level at which the duties are performed, the degree of supervision received, and any limitations placed on the alien. If an analysis of the facts demonstrates that the alien under supervision is authorized to fully perform the duties of the occupation, H classification may be granted.
- (C) Duties without licensure. In certain occupations which generally require licensure, a state may allow an individual to fully practice the occupation under the supervision of licensed senior or supervisory personnel in that occupation. In such cases, the director shall examine the nature of the duties and the level at which they are performed. If the facts demonstrate that the alien under supervision could fully perform the duties of the occupation, H classification may be granted.
- (D) H-1C nurses. For purposes of licensure, H-1C nurses must provide the evidence required in paragraph (h)(3)(iii) of this section.
- (E) Limitation on approval of petition. Where licensure is required in any occupation, including registered nursing, the H petition may only be approved for a period of one year or for the period that the temporary license is valid, whichever is longer, unless the alien already has a permanent license to practice the occupation. An alien who is accorded H classification in an occupation which requires licensure may not be granted an extension of stay or accorded a new H classification after the one year unless he or she has obtained a permanent license in the state of intended employment or continues to hold a temporary license valid in the same state for the period of the requested extension.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(v)(A), if an occupation requires a state or local license for an individual to fully perform the duties of the occupation, an alien (except an H-1C nurse) seeking H classification in that occupation must have that license prior to approval of the petition to be found qualified to enter the United States and immediately engage in employment in the occupation. Licensure would not preclude the granting of a petition if the only bar to licensure is the fact that a beneficiary is not yet present in the United States.¹

Each nonimmigrant petition is a separate proceeding with a separate record. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.8(d). At the time this petition was filed on October 29, 2004, the beneficiary possessed licensure to practice physical therapy. As such, she has satisfied the requirement at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(v)(A).

The director also found that the petitioner did not establish that the beneficiary was maintaining valid status at the time of adjudication. The AAO notes that the petitioner failed to submit evidence that the beneficiary was performing physical therapy services under a valid license from the time of entry until the time she received her license, or that at the time the initial petition was filed the beneficiary qualified for admission into the United States without a license under the Thomas Cook memorandum cited at footnote 1. It thus does not appear that the beneficiary is eligible for an extension of status. That determination, however, is within the director's sole discretion and beyond the scope of the AAO's jurisdiction.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has sustained that burden.

ORDER: The appeal will be sustained. The petition will be approved.
