IN RE: Petitioner: [Redacted]
Beneficiary: [Redacted]

PETITION: Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker Pursuant to Section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

SELF-REPRESENTED

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The director of the service center denied the nonimmigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed. The petition will be denied.

The petitioner is a software services business that seeks to employ the beneficiary as a computer programmer. The petitioner, therefore, endeavors to classify the beneficiary as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b). The director denied the petition because the petitioner did not submit the requested itinerary to clarify the beneficiary's work locations.

The record of proceeding before the AAO contains: (1) the Form I-129 and supporting documentation; (2) the director's request for evidence (RFE); (3) the petitioner's response to the RFE; (4) the director's denial letter; and (5) the Form I-290B, with the petitioner's letter. The AAO reviewed the record in its entirety before reaching its decision.

Section 214(i)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1184(i)(1), defines the term "specialty occupation" as an occupation that requires:

- (A) theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and
- (B) attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty (or its equivalent) as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii):

Specialty occupation means an occupation which requires theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge in field of human endeavor including, but not limited to, architecture, engineering, mathematics, physical sciences, social sciences, medicine and health, education, business specialties, accounting, law, theology, and the arts, and which requires the attainment of a bachelor's degree or higher in a specific specialty, or its equivalent, as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A), to qualify as a specialty occupation, the position must meet one of the following criteria:

- (1) A baccalaureate or higher degree or its equivalent is normally the minimum requirement for entry into the particular position;
- (2) The degree requirement is common to the industry in parallel positions among similar organizations or, in the alternative, an employer may show that its particular position is so complex or unique that it can be performed only by an individual with a degree;

- (3) The employer normally requires a degree or its equivalent for the position; or
- (4) The nature of the specific duties is so specialized and complex that knowledge required to perform the duties is usually associated with the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree.

Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) interprets the term "degree" in the above criteria to mean not just any baccalaureate or higher degree, but one in a specific specialty that is directly related to the proffered position.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii), United States employer means a person, firm, corporation, contractor, or other association, or organization in the United States which:

- (1) Engages a person to work within the United States;
- (2) Has an employer-employee relationship with respect to employees under this part, as indicated by the fact that it may hire, pay, fire, supervise, or otherwise control the work of any such employee; and
- (3) Has an Internal Revenue Service Tax identification number.

In a letter dated April 1, 2007, the petitioner's vice president described the proposed computer programmer duties and time allocations as follows:

- Requirement Analysis (20%);
 - Function Design (20%);
 - Software Development (40%);
 - Software Testing (5%); and
- Software Implementation (15%).

The record also includes an LCA submitted at the time of filing listing the beneficiary's work location in Hoffman Estates, Illinois as a computer programmer.

In an RFE, the director requested additional information from the petitioner, including an itinerary for the beneficiary, copies of contracts between the petitioner and its clients for whom the beneficiary would be performing services, along with any statements of work/work orders, and/or service agreements for the beneficiary.

In response to the RFE, the petitioner's vice president stated, in part, as follows:

The skills and background of the beneficiary are in demand in the U.S. and, on arrival in the U.S. with a valid work visa, the beneficiary will be assigned to any of our clients needing that background – it could be one of our existing clients, or one where a proposal for services is pending or one to be identified yet, since we are continually expanding our business by vigorous marketing.

It will be appreciated that since the U.S. based clients want to be assured of an individual's availability in the country with work authorization, no individual names are used for proposal or for purchase orders.

The director denied the petition because the petitioner did not submit an itinerary to clarify the beneficiary's work locations.

On appeal, the petitioner's president states, in part, as follows:

The intended period of the beneficiary's employment is almost three years. It will be appreciated that just as we, and our clients, are unable to name a specific person to provide the required services, it is not feasible to predict with any certainty where the beneficiary will be working in times to come. We have specified Hoffman Estates as one of the possibilities, and have added other names, depending on our past experience of work assignments. As and when an assignment comes up, we will get a new LCA certified ahead of time.

As supporting documentation, the petitioner's president submits the following: the petitioner's profile; a professional services agreement, dated May 21, 2007, between the petitioner and Connecticut General Life Insurance Company; an unsigned agreement for supplying temporary technical personnel, dated May 23, 2007, between the petitioner and PNC Financial Services; a facsimile, dated December 12, 2006, from International Truck and Engine Corporation, pertaining to its consulting agreement with the petitioner; and an August 25, 2006 letter from the petitioner's president, addressed to the Chief Financial Officer of Kemiron, Inc., regarding a "Proposal for Post-Project activities, support and ongoing maintenance of EMS-II."

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii), United States employer means a person, firm, corporation, contractor, or other association, or organization in the United States which:

- (1) Engages a person to work within the United States;
- (2) Has an employer-employee relationship with respect to employees under this part, as indicated by the fact that it may hire, pay, fire, supervise, or otherwise control the work of any such employee; and
- (3) Has an Internal Revenue Service Tax identification number.

Preliminarily, the AAO finds that the evidence of record is sufficient to establish that the petitioner will act as the beneficiary's employer in that it will hire, pay, fire, supervise, or otherwise control the work of the beneficiary as set out in the March 1, 2007 employment contract signed by the petitioner and the beneficiary, and in the petitioner's June 13, 2007 RFE.¹ See 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(ii).

The Aytes memorandum cited at footnote 1, indicates that the director has the discretion to request that the employer who will employ the beneficiary in multiple locations submit an itinerary. Upon review, the director properly exercised her discretion to request additional information regarding the beneficiary's ultimate employment, as the petitioner indicated that the beneficiary would be working at the petitioner's site in Hoffman Estates, Illinois and at the petitioner's undisclosed client sites. Although the AAO declines to find that the petitioner is acting as the beneficiary's agent, the petitioner in this matter is employing the beneficiary to work for its clients or its clients' clients, and thus can be described as an employment contractor.

When a petitioner is an employment contractor, the entity ultimately employing the alien or using the alien's services must submit a detailed job description of the duties that the alien will perform and the qualifications that are required to perform the job duties. Defensor v. Meissner, 201 F. 3d 384 (5th Cir. 2000). From this evidence, CIS will determine whether the duties require the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge, and the attainment of a baccalaureate or higher degree, or its equivalent, in the specific specialty as the minimum for entry into the occupation as required by the Act.

The petitioner's statement that the beneficiary will be assigned to one of its clients upon arrival in the U.S., is noted. In this matter, however, the petitioner does not provide substantive evidence that the duties of the proffered position incorporate the theoretical and practical application of a body of highly specialized knowledge that requires the attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree in the specific specialty or its equivalent as a minimum for entry into the occupation in the United States. Only a detailed job description from the entity that requires the alien's services will suffice to meet the burden of proof in these proceedings. Defensor v. Meissner, 201 F. 3d 384 (5th Cir. 2000). The record does not contain a detailed description of the work to be performed by the beneficiary for the petitioner's end user. Thus, as the nature of the proposed duties are unclear, the AAO is precluded from determining whether the offered position is one that would normally impose the minimum of a baccalaureate degree in a specific specialty. Accordingly, the petitioner has not established the proffered position as a specialty occupation under 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(iii)(A)(I).²

² The AAO observes that the Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook reports that there are many training paths available for programmers and that although bachelor's degrees are commonly required, certain jobs may require only a two-year degree or certificate; that most employers prefer to hire persons who have at least a bachelor's degree and broad knowledge of a variety of computer systems and technologies for positions of computer software engineer; and that there is no universally accepted way to prepare for a job as a systems analyst, although most employers place a premium on some formal college education. The record is

In that the record does not provide a job description from the end user of the beneficiary's services, the petitioner is also precluded from meeting the requirements of the three remaining alternate criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A). Without a job description detailing the actual programmer duties for the end user, the petitioner may not establish the position's duties as parallel to any degreed positions within similar organizations in its industry or distinguish the position as more complex or unique than similar, but non-degreed, employment, as required by alternate prongs of the second criterion. Absent a descriptive listing of the programmer duties the beneficiary would perform under contract, the petitioner cannot establish that it previously employed degreed individuals to perform such duties, as required by the third criterion. Neither can the petitioner satisfy the requirements of the fourth criterion by distinguishing the proffered position based on the specialization and complexity of its duties.

Upon review of the totality of the record, the record fails to reveal sufficient evidence that the offered position requires a bachelor's degree, or its equivalent, in a specific discipline. Accordingly, it is concluded that the petitioner has not demonstrated that the offered position is a specialty occupation within the meaning of the regulations.

Beyond the decision of the director, the petitioner has not demonstrated compliance with the terms and conditions of the labor condition application, in accordance with 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(B). As discussed above, the petitioner did not submit the requested evidence in the director's RFE pertaining to contracts, statements of work, work orders, and/or service agreements between the petitioner and its clients for whom the beneficiary would be performing services, along with any statements of work, work orders, or service agreements listing the location of the end-client business. Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. at 165. As the beneficiary's ultimate worksite remains unclear, it has not been shown that the work would be covered by the location on the LCA. For this additional reason, the petition may not be approved.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Dor v. INS, 891 F.2d 997, 1002 n. 9 (2d Cir. 1989)(noting that the AAO reviews appeals on a de novo basis).

insufficient to determine whether the duties of the proffered position would be performed by an individual with a two-year degree or certificate or would only be performed by an individual with a four-year degree in a specific discipline.

The petition will be denied and the appeal dismissed for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for the decision. In visa petition proceedings, the burden of proving eligibility for the benefit sought remains entirely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. The petition is denied.
