FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Acting Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and certified to the Associate Commissioner for Examinations for review. The director's decision will be affirmed and the petition will be denied.

The petitioner is a residential contractor who seeks to employ the beneficiary as a carpenter's helper and mower for a period of one year. The Department of Labor determined that a temporary labor certification by the Secretary of Labor could not be made. The director determined that the need for the beneficiary's services is permanent and denied the petition. The director certified his decision to the Associate Commissioner for Examinations for review.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii), defines an H-2B temporary worker as:

...An alien having a residence in a foreign country which he has no intention of abandoning, who is coming temporarily to the United States to perform other temporary service or labor if unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country, but this clause shall not apply to graduates of medical schools coming to the United States to perform services as members of the medical profession....

Matter of Artee Corp., 18 I&N Dec. 366 (Comm. 1982), as codified in current regulations at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii), specified that the test for determining whether an alien is coming "temporarily" to the United States to "perform temporary services or labor" is whether the need of the petitioner for the duties to be performed is temporary. It is the nature of the need, not the nature of the duties, that is controlling. See 55 Fed. Reg. 2616 (1990).

As a general rule, the period of the petitioner's need must be a year or less, although there may be extraordinary circumstances where the temporary services or labor might last longer than one year. The petitioner's need for the services or labor must be a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B).

The Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker (Form I-129) indicates that the dates of intended employment for the beneficiary are from June 21, 1999 until June 20, 2000. The petition also indicates that the employment is a one-time occurrence and the temporary need is unpredictable.

For the nature of the petitioner's need to be a one-time occurrence, the petitioner must establish that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future.

The petitioner states that although she received her residential builder's license, she acquired it so that she could be more useful in the construction of her new garden building and new house. The petitioner further states that once the garden building and the house are built, she will not need the services of the beneficiary. In this case, the petitioner provides no outline for the beginning and end of construction. Given the scope of work to be accomplished, it is determined that the petitioner has a permanent need for a worker in the offered position to complete the outlined projects. The nature of the need of the petitioner is permanent rather than temporary in nature.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. Here, the petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The director's decision of July 27, 1999 is affirmed. The nonimmigrant visa petition is denied.
