FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the District Director, New York, New York, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant was born on January 15, 1984, in Ecuador. The applicant's father, [REDACTED] was born in Ecuador in March 1940 and became a naturalized U.S. citizen on February 24, 1999. The applicant's mother, [REDACTED] was born in Ecuador and never had a claim to United States citizenship. The applicant's parents married each other on July 19, 1980. The applicant is seeking a certificate of citizenship under section 320 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1431.

The district director reviewed the record and concluded that the applicant had never been lawfully admitted for permanent residence and denied the application accordingly.

In an appeal filed on November 9, 2001, the applicant's father states that his daughter has been issued an immigrant visa and will arrive in the United States at the end of November 2001. The applicant's father states that his daughter will become 18 years old in January 2002.

Sections 320 and 322 of the Act were amended by the Child Citizenship Act of 2000 (CCA), and took effect on February 27, 2001. The CCA benefits all persons who have not yet reached their 18th birthday as of February 27, 2001. The applicant was 17 years and 1 month old on February 27, 2001. Therefore, she is eligible for the benefits of the CCA.

Section 320(a) of the Act, effective on February 27, 2001, provides, in part, that a child born outside of the United States automatically becomes a citizen of the United States when all of the following conditions have been fulfilled:

(1) At least one parent of the child is a citizen of the United States, whether by birth or naturalization.

(2) The child is under the age of eighteen years.

(3) The child is residing in the United States in the legal and physical custody of the citizen parent pursuant to a lawful admission for permanent residence.

(b) Subsection (a) shall apply to a child adopted by a United States citizen parent if the child satisfies the requirements applicable to adopted children under section 101(b) (1).

The applicant was not residing in the United States in the legal and physical custody of the citizen parent pursuant to a lawful admission for permanent residence at the time the application was adjudicated.

8 C.F.R. 341.2(c) provides that the burden of proof shall be on the claimant to establish the claimed citizenship by a preponderance of the evidence. Therefore, the appeal will be dismissed.

This decision is without prejudice to the applicant's seeking U.S. citizenship through normal naturalization procedures by filing an Application for Naturalization on Form N-400 with a Service office having jurisdiction over her place of residence.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
