IN RE:

Applicant:

APPLICATION:

Application for Certificate of Citizenship under section 1993 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

SELF-REPRESENTED

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the District Director, New York, New York, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The record reflects that the applicant was born on July 20, 1931, in the Dominican Republic. The Form N-600, Application for Certificate of Citizenship reflects that the applicant's father, [REDACTED] was born in Puerto Rico on December 6, 1882. The applicant's mother was born in the Dominican Republic on an unknown date. The applicant's parents did not marry. The applicant presently seeks a certificate of citizenship pursuant to section 1993 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, based on the claim that she derived citizenship through her father.

The director found that the record contained insufficient evidence to adjudicate the applicant's eligibility for citizenship. The application was therefore denied due to lack of prosecution.

In an appeal dated February 9, 2000, the applicant requests an additional sixty days to obtain documentation relating to her citizenship claim. The AAO notes that no subsequent evidence was submitted by the applicant. The applicant's appeal makes no other assertions regarding her eligibility for U.S. citizenship.

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(v) states in pertinent part:

(v) Summary dismissal. An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.

The AAO finds that the applicant has failed to identify any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact in her appeal. The appeal will therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
