INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

If you believe the law was inappropriately applied or the analysis used in reaching the decision was inconsistent with the information provided or with precedent decisions, you may file a motion to reconsider. Such a motion must state the reasons for reconsideration and be supported by any pertinent precedent decisions. Any motion to reconsider must be filed within 30 days of the decision that the motion seeks to reconsider, as required under 8 C.F.R. § 103.5(a)(1)(i).

If you have new or additional information that you wish to have considered, you may file a motion to reopen. Such a motion must state the new facts to be proved at the reopened proceeding and be supported by affidavits or other documentary evidence. Any motion to reopen must be filed within 30 days of the decision that the motion seeks to reopen, except that failure to file before this period expires may be excused in the discretion of the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services (Bureau) where it is demonstrated that the delay was reasonable and beyond the control of the applicant or petitioner. Id.

Any motion must be filed with the office that originally decided your case along with a fee of $110 as required under 8 C.F.R. § 103.7.

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Application for Permission to Reapply for Admission Into the United States After Deportation or Removal (I-212 application) was denied by the District Director, Harlingen, Texas. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The record reflects that the applicant is a 43-year old native and citizen of Mexico. The applicant was found to be inadmissible to the United States pursuant to sections 212(a)(9) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9), for having been ordered deported from the United States and for having been deported from the United States. The applicant seeks permission to reapply for admission into the United States under section 212(a)(9)(A)(iii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(A)(iii), in order to live near her two U.S. citizen children.

The director concluded that the applicant had no extenuating circumstances that merited approval of her application. He also noted that little time had lapsed since she had been found ineligible for admission. The I-212 application was denied accordingly.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the director used an erroneous legal standard and failed to consider the applicant's favorable factors. Counsel also indicated that he would send a brief and or additional evidence to the AAO within thirty days. More than eleven months have lapsed and no additional evidence has been submitted into the record.

Section 212(a)(9) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9) states in pertinent part:

(9) Aliens Previously Removed.-

(A) Certain aliens previously removed.-

(i) Arriving aliens.-Any alien who has been ordered removed under section 235(b)(1) or at the end of proceedings under section 240 initiated upon the alien's arrival in the United States and who again seeks admission within 5 years of the date of such removal (or within 20 years in the case of a second or subsequent removal or at any time in the case of an alien convicted of an aggravated felony) is inadmissible.

(ii) Other aliens.-Any alien not described in clause (i) who-

(I) has been ordered removed under section 240 or any other provision of law, or

(II) departed the United States while an order of removal was outstanding, and who seeks admission within 10 years of the date of such alien's departure or removal (or within 20 years of such date in the case of a second or subsequent removal or at any time in the case of an alien convicted of an aggravated felony) is inadmissible.

(iii) Exception.-Clauses (i) and (ii) shall not apply to an alien seeking admission within a period if, prior to the date of the alien's reembarkation at a place outside the United States or attempt to be admitted from foreign contiguous territory, the Attorney General has consented to the alien's reapplying for admission.

Approval of an I-212 application requires that the favorable aspects of an applicant's case outweigh the unfavorable aspects.

In determining whether the consent required by statute should be granted, all pertinent circumstances relating to the applicant which are set forth in the record of proceedings are considered. These include but are not limited to the basis for deportation, recency of deportation, length of residence in the United States, the moral character of the applicant, his respect for law and order, evidence of reformation and rehabilitation, his family responsibilities, any inadmissibility to the United States under other sections of law, hardship involved to himself and others, and the need for his services in the United States.

Matter of Tin, 14 I&N Dec. 373, 374 (Comm. 1973).

This office finds the following favorable factors: The applicant has two United States citizen children. She resided in the United States with her husband since July 1986, for approximately ten years before she was apprehended at the border in 1996. She has no criminal record. She and her husband own their own home in the United States.

This office finds the following negative factors: The applicant overstayed her visa. She failed to depart this country after being granted voluntary departure. She was then deported.

On appeal, counsel states that the applicant's spouse is a lawful permanent resident who would suffer unusual hardship if the application would be denied. The assertions of counsel do not constitute evidence. Matter of Obaigbena, 19 I&N Dec. 533, 534 (BIA 1988); Matter of Ramirez-Sanchez, 17 I&N Dec. 503, 506 (BIA 1980).

In discretionary matters, the applicant bears the full burden of proving that she merits an exercise of discretion by the Secretary of Homeland Security ("Secretary"). See Matter of Ducret, 15 I&N Dec. 620 (BIA 1976). The applicant in this case failed to establish that she warrants a favorable exercise of discretion.

ORDER: The appeal will be dismissed.
