Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Application for Permission to Reapply for Admission into the United States after Deportation or Removal (I-212 Application) was denied by the District Director, Harlingen, Texas, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The record reflects that the applicant is a native and citizen of Mexico, and that he is a former legal permanent resident in the United States. On November 26, 1996, the applicant was ordered excluded from the United States pursuant to section 212(a)(2)(C) of the former Immigration and Nationality Act (the former Act), 8 U.S.C. §1182(a)(2)(C), for possession of more than fifty pounds and less than 2000 pounds of marihuana, while attempting to enter the U.S. on June 3, 1996. The applicant seeks permission to reapply for admission into the United States after deportation or removal in order to work with his brother in Chicago.

The district director found that, based on the evidence in the record, the applicant is inadmissible to the U.S. pursuant to section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(II) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182 (a)(2)(A)(i)(II), as an alien convicted of a controlled substance trafficking crime. The district director concluded that, in light of the applicant's inadmissibility, no useful purpose would be served in adjudicating or granting the applicant's I-212 application. The application was denied accordingly.

Section 212(a)(2) of the Act states in pertinent part:

(2) Criminal and related grounds. -

(A) Conviction of certain crimes. -

(i) In general. - Except as provided in clause (ii), any alien convicted of, or who admits having committed, or who admits committing acts which constitute the essential elements of . . .
(II) a violation of (or conspiracy or attempt to violate) any law or regulation of a State, the United States, or a foreign country relating to a controlled substance (as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 802)), is inadmissible.

Section 212(h) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that:

The Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of . . . subparagraph [2] (A)(i)(II) of such subsection insofar as it relates to a single offense of simple possession of 30 grams or less of marijuana

Here, the applicant was convicted of possession of between 50 and 2000 pounds of marihuana. He is thus statutorily ineligible for a waiver of this ground of inadmissibility.

In Matter of Tin, 14 I&N Dec. 373 (BIA 1973), the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) held that:

In determining whether the consent required by statute [for an application for permission to reapply for admission] should be granted [by the Attorney General], all pertinent circumstances relating to the applicant which are set forth in the record of proceedings are considered. These include but are not limited to the basis for deportation, recency of deportation, length of residence in the United States, the moral character of the applicant, his respect for law and order, evidence of reformation and rehabilitation, his family responsibilities, any inadmissibility to the United States under other sections of law, hardship involved to himself and others, and the need for his services in the United States.

Tin at 373-374. It is noted that the applicant's appeal did not address any of the above factors. The appeal stated only that the applicant wanted to return to the U.S. because he had the possibility of a job with his brother in Chicago.

Moreover, in Matter of Martinez-Torres, 10 I&N Dec. 776 (BIA 1964), the BIA held that in the case of an applicant who is mandatorily inadmissible to the U.S. "no purpose would be served in granting [the] application for permission to reapply for admission into the United States." The BIA held further that the district director's action in denying an I-212 application as a matter of administrative discretion was proper.

A review of the documentation in the record reflects that the applicant is statutorily inadmissible to the U.S. and that the district director's discretionary denial of his application was proper.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
