Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for a travel document was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The applicant seeks to obtain a travel document under section 223 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1203. The director correctly denied the application for a reentry permit after determining that the applicant was in possession of a valid refugee travel document at the time of the filing of the application.

On appeal, counsel states that the applicant relinquished her refugee travel document to the Service prior to her receiving the Service's denial of her application for a re-entry permit. Counsel argues that without a travel document from the Service, the applicant is now unable to travel abroad.

Regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 223.2(b)(1) state, in pertinent part, that an application for a reentry permit may be approved if filed by a person who is in the United States at the time of application and is a lawful permanent resident or conditional resident.

Regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 223.2(c)(1) state that an application for a reentry permit or refugee travel document shall be denied if the applicant was previously issued a reentry permit or refugee travel document which is still valid, unless it was returned to the Service or it is demonstrated that it was lost.

As it has been demonstrated on appeal that the applicant is no longer in possession of her previously issued refugee travel document, the application for a reentry permit may be approved.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the applicant. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The applicant has met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
