DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker was denied by the Director, Western Service Center. It was reopened and denied by the Director, California Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The directors denied the application because the applicant failed to establish the performance of at least 90 man-days of qualifying agricultural employment during the eligibility period ending May 1, 1986. These determinations were based on adverse information regarding the applicant's claim of employment for [REDACTED]

On appeal to the first decision, the applicant indicated that he would attempt to acquire further evidence from [REDACTED]. However, he failed to do so. Nevertheless, the Director, California Service Center reopened the matter and denied the application for a different reason. The applicant did not respond to the second denial, in which the director pointed out that [REDACTED] did not employ any farm workers for at least 90 days as [REDACTED] as claimed.

In order to be eligible for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker, an alien must have engaged in qualifying agricultural employment for at least 90 man-days during the twelve-month period ending May 1, 1986, and must be otherwise admissible under section 210(c) of the Act and not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(d). 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(a). An applicant has the burden of proving the above by a preponderance of the evidence. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(b).

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed. The applicant has failed to address the reasons stated for the second denial and has not provided any additional evidence on appeal. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
