Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The termination of the applicant's temporary resident status by the Director, California Service Center is before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director terminated the applicant's temporary resident status because the applicant failed to file the application for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent residence within the 43-month application period.

On appeal, the applicant reiterates that she has resided in the United States since she was a small child. She points out that her spouse, mother and children are all United States citizens. She further explains that she needs her work permit.

The status of an alien lawfully admitted for temporary residence under section 245A(a)(1) of the Act may be terminated at any time if the alien fails to file for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent resident on Form I-698 within forty-three (43) months of the date he/she was granted status as a temporary resident. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(u)(1)(iv).

The applicant was granted temporary resident status on March 9, 1992. The 43-month eligibility period for filing for adjustment expired on October 9, 1995. The Application for Adjustment of Status from Temporary to Permanent Resident (Form I-698) was first submitted on May 25, 1999, and was later filed on June 7, 1999. The director therefore denied the untimely I-698 application, and subsequently terminated the applicant's temporary resident status.

The original eligibility period of 31 months was extended to 43 months to better enable applicants to file timely applications. The burden to file the adjustment application in a timely manner remains with the applicant. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.3(d).

The applicant's statements made on appeal have been considered. Nevertheless, there is no waiver available, even for humanitarian reasons, of the requirements stated above. As the applicant has not overcome the grounds for termination of status, the appeal must be dismissed.

If neither the applicant's spouse nor mother has filed a relative petition on her behalf, that petition may be filed immediately.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
