Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The termination of the applicant's temporary resident status by the Director, California Service Center is before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director terminated the applicant's temporary resident status because the applicant failed to file the application for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent residence within the 43-month application period.

On appeal, the applicant states he was never advised of any deadline by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) or the voluntary organization that assisted him, until it was too late.

The status of an alien lawfully admitted for temporary residence under section 245A(a)(1) of the Act may be terminated at any time if the alien fails to file for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent resident on Form I-698 within forty-three months of the date he/she was granted status as a temporary resident under § 245a.1 of this part. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(u)(1)(iv).

The applicant was granted temporary resident status on May 4, 1989. The 43-month eligibility period for filing for adjustment expired on December 4, 1992. The Application for Adjustment of Status from Temporary to Permanent Resident (Form I-698) was first received by INS on December 2, 1993. The director therefore denied the untimely I-698 application, and subsequently terminated the applicant's temporary resident status.

On appeal, the applicant claims that he did not apply for adjustment in a timely fashion because he had not been properly advised of the need to do so. He states that he never received a letter of instructions, and that the INS employees whom he spoke to personally always advised him to wait.

The applicant's contention that he was not properly advised when he appeared at the INS office simply cannot be confirmed by a review of the record. INS and private voluntary organizations did widely publicize the requirement of applying for adjustment to permanent residence within the requisite period. Furthermore, INS did send notices to aliens' last known addresses, specifically advising them of the requirement. It is noted that the applicant had moved by the time he applied for adjustment to permanent residence, and any prior notices sent to him may have been sent to the original address, which would have been the only address INS had for him.

It is further noted that the original eligibility period of 31 months was extended to 43 months to better enable applicants to file timely applications. The burden to file the adjustment application in a timely manner remains with the applicant. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.3(d).

The applicant's statements made on appeal have been considered. It is not apparent that the applicant was improperly advised by INS. As the applicant has not overcome the grounds for termination of status, the appeal must be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
