Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director terminated the applicant's temporary resident status because he found that the Form I-698 Application to Adjust Status from Temporary to Permanent Resident was not filed within 43 months after the approval of the application for temporary resident status on April 4, 1988.

On appeal, the applicant stated that he received a letter in 2001 and was instructed to come to an Immigration and Naturalization Service office. When the applicant appeared at the proper address, an officer took away his temporary resident card and indicated he was unable to help the applicant because of the events of September 11, 2001. The applicant provided no additional evidence or explanation to overcome the reasons for denial of his application. Specifically, the applicant did not provide evidence that he actually filed his Form I-698 within 43 months after the approval of his application for temporary resident status.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed.

A review of the decision reveals the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has he addressed the grounds stated for denial. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
