ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status was denied by the Director, Washington, DC District Office, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because she found the evidence submitted with the application was insufficient to establish eligibility for Temporary Resident Status pursuant to the terms of the CSS/Newman settlement agreements. Specifically, the applicant stated in her interview with a Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) officer that she first entered the United States on March 18, 1985. The applicant went on to submit a sworn statement reflecting that this was her first entry date into the United States. The director found that because of this, the applicant failed to establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that she entered the United States before January 1, 1982, and then maintained continuous residence in the United States in an unlawful status since such date and through the date the application is filed as required by Section 245A(a)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1255a(a)(2).

On appeal, the applicant states that any action taken against her will affect her three children. She goes on to say that if she is unable to work or stay in the United States her children will suffer because she is a single parent. The applicant provides a statement in which she asserts that she was the victim of someone whom she refers to as "an agent" who helped her to complete her paperwork when she applied for status as a temporary resident. The applicant provided no additional evidence or explanation to overcome the reasons for denial of her application.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed.

A review of the decision reveals the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has she addressed the grounds stated for denial. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
