Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status was denied by the Director, National Benefits Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because he found the evidence submitted with the application was insufficient to establish eligibility for Temporary Resident Status pursuant to the terms of the CSS/Newman settlement agreements. Specifically, the applicant submitted only one affidavit in support of her claims of eligibility. This affidavit, from [REDACTED], did not include any statements or evidence that the applicant entered the United States prior to January 1, 1982 or that she resided continuously in the United States for the duration of the requisite period. The other evidence submitted, including a passport biographic page, United States F-1 visa issued on January 31, 2003 and an I-94 Arrival/Departure Record dated February 20, 2003 concerns the time period after the statutory period and therefore, does not provide evidence of eligibility for the benefit sought.

On appeal, the applicant stated that she does not have any additional evidence that would support her claims of eligibility. The applicant provided no additional documentation to support her claim or to overcome the reasons for denial of this application.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed.

A review of the decision reveals the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has she addressed the grounds stated for denial. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
