Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for permanent resident status under the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act was denied by the Director, Missouri Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director concluded the applicant had not established that he had applied for class membership in any of the requisite legalization class-action lawsuits prior to October 1, 2000 and, therefore, denied the application.

On appeal, the applicant reaffirms his prior claim to eligibility for temporary residence as a special agricultural worker.

An applicant for permanent resident status under the LIFE Act must establish that before October 1, 2000, he or she filed a written claim with the Attorney General for class membership in any of the following legalization class-action lawsuits: Catholic Social Services, Inc. v. Meese, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993), League of United Latin American Citizens v. INS, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993), or Zambrano v. INS, vacated sub nom. Immigration and Naturalization Service v. Zambrano, 509 U.S. 918 (1993).

The applicant failed to submit any documentation addressing this requirement at the time the application was filed, in rebuttal to the director's notice of intent to deny, or on appeal. Instead, the applicant provided documentation relating to an application he had previously filed for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker under section 210 of the INA. The applicant timely filed an application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker under section 210 of the INA, and this application was subsequently denied. The applicant appealed the denial of his application, and this appeal was dismissed by the AAO. The applicant has provided a copy of both the Bureau's denial as well as the AAO's dismissal.

It appears from his statements on appeal and in rebuttal, along with his accompanying submissions, that the applicant may have confused his prior application for special agricultural worker status with the requirement for eligibility under the LIFE Act that he file a timely written claim for class membership in one of the aforementioned legalization class-action lawsuits. It should also be noted that section 1104 of the LIFE Act contains no provision allowing for the reopening and reconsideration of a timely filed and previously denied application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker under section 210 of the INA.

In addition, on the applicant's G-325A Biographic Information Form, he indicated that he had resided in his native Bangladesh until May 1985. Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 245a.11(b), each applicant for permanent resident status under the LIFE Act is required to demonstrate that he or she entered the United States prior to January 1, 1982.

Given the applicant's inability to meet this requirement, along with his failure to claim or document having filed a timely written claim for class membership, the applicant is ineligible for permanent residence under section 1104 of the LIFE Act.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
