DISCUSSION: The application for permanent resident status under the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act was denied by the Director, Missouri Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The director concluded the applicant had not established that he had applied for class membership in any of the requisite legalization class-action lawsuits prior to October 1, 2000 and, therefore, denied the application.

On appeal, counsel reiterates the claim that the applicant previously filed for class membership.

An applicant for permanent resident status under the LIFE Act must establish that before October 1, 2000, he or she filed a written claim with the Attorney General for class membership in any of the following legalization class-action lawsuits: Catholic Social Services, Inc. v. Meese, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993) (CSS), League of United Latin American Citizens v. INS, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993) (LULAC), or Zambrano v. INS, vacated sub nom. Immigration and Naturalization Service v. Zambrano, 509 U.S. 918 (1993) (Zambrano). See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.10.

The regulations provide an illustrative list of documents that an applicant may submit to establish that he or she filed a written claim for class membership before October 1, 2000. Those regulations also permit the submission of "[a]ny other relevant document(s)." See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.14.

The inference to be drawn from the documentation provided shall depend on the extent of the documentation, its credibility and amenability to verification. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.12(e). An alien applying for adjustment of status under section 1104 of the LIFE Act has the burden of proving his or her eligibility by a preponderance of the evidence.

With his LIFE Act application, the applicant submitted the following document:

- an appointment notice that is dated March 14, 1994, from the Immigration and Naturalization Service's, or the Service's (now Citizenship and Immigration Services, or CIS) District Office in Dallas, Texas, bearing the applicant's name, address, and Alien Registration Number or A file number, A91 118 008, which scheduled him for an interview at 9:00 A.M. on April 14, 1994, and directed him to ask for the CSS Immigration Examiner.

In denying the application, the director noted that a review of the relevant records including the appointment notice noted above, failed to demonstrate any evidence that the applicant made a claim to class membership. However, the director did not acknowledge that the appointment notice specified that the applicant was directed to ask for the CSS Immigration Examiner. The director did not establish that the information in the supporting document was inconsistent with the claims made on the application or that such information was false. Rather, the authenticity of the interview notice is corroborated by the fact that the record contains the notes of the Service officer who conducted this interview with the applicant at the district office in Dallas, Texas, on April 14, 1994. The applicant's own testimony taken in context with supporting evidence in certain cases can logically meet the preponderance of evidence standard. As stated in Matter of E--M--, 20 I. & N. Dec. 77 (Comm. 1989), when something is to be established by a preponderance of evidence, the applicant only has to establish that the proof is probably true. Clearly, the supporting document is a relevant document under 8 C.F.R. § 245a.14. As such, the applicant's claim to class membership must be considered in light of such testimony and evidence.

The independent and contemporaneous evidence contained in the record supports the applicant's assertion that he put forth a claim to class membership and that he appeared for an interview regarding CSS class membership at 9:00 A.M. on April 14, 1994, at the Service's Dallas, Texas district office. Therefore, it must be concluded that the applicant has demonstrated that he filed a written claim to class membership in one of the requisite legalization class-action lawsuits prior to October 1, 2000.

It must now be determined whether the applicant is otherwise eligible for permanent resident status under section 1140 of the LIFE Act. Accordingly, the matter will be forwarded to the appropriate district office for further processing and adjudication of the LIFE Act application.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained. The director shall forward this matter to the proper district office for the completion of adjudication of the application for permanent residence.
