DISCUSSION: The application for permanent resident status under the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act was denied by the Director, Missouri Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director concluded the applicant had not established that she had applied for class membership in any of the requisite legalization class-action lawsuits prior to October 1, 2000 and, therefore, denied the application.

On appeal, the applicant states that she filed a claim for class membership in the CSS v. Reno class-action lawsuit. The applicant asserts that she filed this claim in addition to having filed an application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker (SAW) under section 210 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA). The applicant includes photocopies of previously submitted documentation relating to the prior SAW application with her appeal.

An applicant for permanent resident status under the LIFE Act must establish that before October 1, 2000, he or she filed a written claim with the Attorney General for class membership in any of the following legalization class-action lawsuits: Catholic Social Services, Inc. v. Meese, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993) (CSS), League of United Latin American Citizens v. INS, vacated sub nom. Reno v. Catholic Social Services, Inc., 509 U.S. 43 (1993) (LULAC), or Zambrano v. INS, vacated sub nom. Immigration and Naturalization Service v. Zambrano, 509 U.S. 918 (1993) (Zambrano). See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.10.

The regulations provide an illustrative list of documents that an applicant may submit to establish that he or she filed a written claim for class membership before October 1, 2000. Those regulations also permit the submission of "[a]ny other relevant document(s)." See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.14.

While the applicant claims that she is a class member in the CSS lawsuit, the record contains no evidence that she submitted a written claim to class membership prior to the filing of her LIFE Act application. With her LIFE Act application, in response to the notice of intent to deny, and on appeal, the applicant provides photocopies of documentation relating to her prior application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker (SAW) under section 210 of the INA. The applicant timely filed the SAW application and this application was denied January 21, 1992. An application for SAW status does not constitute an application for class membership in any of the legalization class-action lawsuits. Furthermore, section 1104 of the LIFE Act contains no provision allowing for the reopening and reconsideration of a previously filed and denied application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker under section 210 of the INA.

The record reflects all appropriate indices and files were checked and it was determined that the applicant had not applied for class membership in a timely manner. Given her failure to document that she filed a written claim for class membership, the applicant is ineligible for permanent residence under section 1104 of the LIFE Act.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
