ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. The file has been returned to the National Benefits Center. If your appeal was dismissed, you no longer have a case pending before this office, and you are not entitled to file a motion to reopen or reconsider your case.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for permanent resident status under the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act was denied by the District Director, Dallas, Texas, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The district director denied the application because the applicant had failed to establish that he satisfied the basic citizenship skills required under section 1104(c)(2)(E) of the LIFE Act. The district director also determined that the applicant failed to demonstrate that he had continuously resided in the United States in an unlawful status from before January 1, 1982, through May 4, 1988.

On appeal, applicant states that while he was given two chances to pass the English and history test, he was taking courses at the time of his second interview and did not completely finish his education. He provided a previously submitted affidavit to explain his performance on the tests. He further states that "The phone number of people who gave me affidavits was given a long time ago and people move and change their addresses, and I have no control over these events." He maintains that he came to the United States without inspection when he was sixteen years old and has lived in the United States for almost 24 years.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) states, in pertinent part:

An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.

The applicant has failed to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact in this proceeding; therefore, the appeal must be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
