Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker was denied by the Director, Western Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because the applicant failed to establish the performance of at least 90 man-days of qualifying agricultural employment during the eligibility period ending May 1, 1986. This determination was based on adverse information acquired by the Bureau regarding the applicant's claim of employment for foreman Pablo Curiel at Ag Tech Farm.

On appeal, the applicant requested that he be provided with a copy of the record of proceedings pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and an additional 30-day extension in which to submit a brief after receipt of his legalization file. In addition, the applicant stated that the denial of his case was erroneous. The applicant further stated that he was unable to provide the specific legal reasons for his appeal because he did not yet have representation and had not had the opportunity to review the file.

The record indicates that, on November 5, 2003, the Immigration and Naturalization Service or INS (now, Citizenship and Immigration Services or CIS) complied with the applicant's request for a copy of the record. As of this date, however, the applicant has failed to submit a brief or any additional documentation in support of his claim.

In order to be eligible for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker, an alien must have engaged in qualifying agricultural employment for at least 90 man-days during the twelve-month period ending May 1, 1986, and must be otherwise admissible under section 210(c) of the Act and not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(d). 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(a). An applicant has the burden of proving the above by a preponderance of the evidence. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(b).

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed. The applicant has failed to address the reasons stated for denial and has not provided any additional evidence on appeal. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
