Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: This matter is an application for temporary resident status denied by the Director, Western Service Center. The matter is before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because of the applicant's criminal record.

On appeal, the applicant stated that he had violation problems in the past, but that at the present time he is a responsible person. The applicant submitted evidence that his criminal record, case # [REDACTED] May 30, 1983, Municipal Court, Riverside, California, had been destroyed. The applicant also submitted a copy of his 1994 California driving record.

An alien who has been convicted of a felony or three or more misdemeanors in the United States is ineligible for temporary resident status. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(d)(3).

"Misdemeanor" means a crime committed in the United States, either (1) punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, or (2) a crime treated as a misdemeanor under the term "felony" of this section. For purposes of this definition, any crime punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.1(o).

"Felony" means a crime committed in the United States punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, except when the offense is defined by the state as a misdemeanor, and the sentence actually imposed is one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served. Under this exception, for purposes of 8 C.F.R. part 245a of the Act, the crime shall be treated as a misdemeanor 8 C.F.R. § 245a.1(p).

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude (other than a purely political offense), or if he admits having committed such crime, or if he admits committing an act which constitutes the essential elements of such crime. Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(9) of the Act.

The most commonly accepted definition of a crime involving moral turpitude is an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. Jordan v. De George, 341 U.S. 223, reh'g denied, 341 U.S. 956 (1951).

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of, or admits having committed, or admits committing acts which constitute the essential elements of a violation of (or a conspiracy to violate) any law or regulation of a State, the United States, or a foreign country relating to a controlled substance (as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act, 21 USC 802). Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(II) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(23) of the Act. An alien is also inadmissible if a consular officer or immigration officer knows or has reason to believe he is or has been an illicit trafficker in any such controlled substance. Section 212(a)(2)(C) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(23) of the Act.

The FBI report reveals that on May 30, 1983, in Riverside, California, the applicant was arrested and charged with Driving under the Influence, Felony Hit & Run, and Driving without a License. The final outcome of these charges is unknown, as the requested court disposition was not made available to the Citizenship and Immigration Services.

Even though court records may have been destroyed, the applicant has the burden to establish, with affirmative evidence that outstanding charges were dismissed or were in error. The applicant has made no statements regarding the disposition of the aforementioned charges other than to admit on appeal that he had had violations in the past. Therefore, it must be concluded that the charges were not dismissed.

An alien applying for temporary resident status had the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she is admissible to the United States under the provisions of section 210(c) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1160, and is otherwise eligible for temporary resident status under this section. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(b)(1). The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
