Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status as a special agricultural worker was denied by the Director, Western Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the applicant's status because the applicant had been convicted of a felony.

On appeal, the applicant requested a copy of his file through the Freedom of Information. The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), now Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) complied with the request December 20, 1998. The applicant maintains that a felony conviction is only disqualifying if it occurred subsequent to his applying for benefits under the Act.

An alien who has been convicted of a felony or three or more misdemeanors in the United States is ineligible for temporary resident status. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(d)(3).

"Felony" means a crime committed in the United States punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, except when the offense is defined by the state as a misdemeanor, and the sentence actually imposed is one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served. Under this exception, for purposes of 8 C.F.R. Part 245a, the crime shall be treated as a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.1(p).

"Misdemeanor" means a crime committed in the United States, either (1) punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, or (2) a crime treated as a misdemeanor under 8 C.F.R. § 245a.1(p). For purposes of this definition, any crime punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.1(o).

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude (other than a purely political offense), or if he admits having committed such crime, or if he admits committing an act which constitutes the essential elements of such crime. Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(9) of the Act.

The most commonly accepted definition of a crime involving moral turpitude is an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. Jordan v. De George, 341 U.S. 223, reh'g denied, 341 U.S. 956 (1951).

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of, or admits having committed, or admits committing acts which constitute the essential elements of a violation of (or a conspiracy to violate) any law or regulation of a State, the United States, or a foreign country relating to a controlled substance (as defined in section 102 of the Controlled Substances Act, 21 USC 802). Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(II) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(23) of the Act. An alien is also inadmissible if a consular officer or immigration officer knows or has reason to believe he is or has been an illicit trafficker in any such controlled substance. Section 212(a)(2)(C) of the Act, formerly section 212(a)(23) of the Act.

The record reveals the applicant was convicted of the felony offense of Assault with a Deadly Weapon, a violation of section 245(a)(1) of the California Penal Code (CPC) on March 9, 1989. The applicant has not denied this conviction.

The court of appeals in Naranjo-Aguilera v. INS, 30 F.3d 1106 (9th Cir. 1994) ruled that the district court had no jurisdiction to rule on the "one felony, three misdemeanor" regulation and its implementation by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. It left intact the Service's determination that conviction(s) of a felony or three or more misdemeanors committed in the United States support a denial of an application for temporary residence as a special agricultural worker as well as a termination of temporary residence, regardless of when the conviction(s) occurred. Further, it is a long-standing principle that issues of present admissibility are determined under the law that exists on the date of the decision. Matter of Alarcon, 20 I&N Dec. 557 (BIA 1992).

Congress did not place any time restraints on the applicability of this section of law. The applicant's felony conviction renders him ineligible to maintain temporary resident status. It is noted that this finding regarding felony and misdemeanor convictions in the special agricultural worker program is consistent with the finding in the general legalization (amnesty) program concerning felony and misdemeanor convictions.

An alien applying for adjustment of status has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she is admissible to the United States under the provisions of section 210(c) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1160, and is otherwise eligible for adjustment of status under this section. 8 C.F.R. § 210.3(b)(1). The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
