Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because the applicant failed to establish that he is a national of a foreign state designated by the Attorney General and eligible for the granting of Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254. The applicant is a citizen and national of Costa Rica and that country has not been so designated under section 244 of the Act.

The applicant appears to be represented; however, the record does not contain Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative. Therefore, the applicant will be considered to be self-represented.

The applicant states, on appeal, that although he is a national and citizen of Costa Rica, he is eligible for TPS because he is the spouse of a citizen of Nicaragua.

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(a), provide that an applicant is eligible for temporary protected status only if such alien establishes that he or she:

Is a national, as defined in section (101) (a) (21) of the Act, of a foreign state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;....

As a citizen and national of Costa Rica, the applicant is ineligible for the provisions of section 244 of the Act. A marriage alone, to a TPS registrant, does not render the applicant eligible for the benefit being sought; he or she must meet all other requirements.

An alien applying for temporary protected status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of § 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
