IN RE: Applicant: [REDACTED]

APPLICATION: Application for Temporary Protected Status under Section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1254

ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

for
Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center (VSC), and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador who is applying for Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director denied the application after determining that the applicant had failed to establish her qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite time periods.

On appeal, counsel for the applicant submits a brief statement. Counsel indicates that he is sending a brief and/or evidence to the AAO within 30 days of filing the appeal. To date, no additional documentation has been received; therefore, the record is considered complete.

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2, provide that an applicant who is a national of a foreign state designated by the Attorney General is eligible for Temporary Protected Status only if such alien establishes that he or she:

- (a) Is a national, as defined in section 101(a)(21) of the Act, of a foreign state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;
- (b) Has been continuously physically present in the United States since the effective date of the most recent designation of that foreign state;
- (c) Has continuously resided in the United States since such date as the Attorney General may designate;
- (d) Is admissible as an immigrant except as provided under section 244.3;
- (e) Is not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 244.4; and
- (f) (1) Registers for TPS during the initial registration period announced by public notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, or
- (2) During any subsequent extension of such designation if at the time of the initial registration period:
 - (i) The applicant is a nonimmigrant or has been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
 - (ii) The applicant has an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal which is pending or subject to further review or appeal;

- (iii) The applicant is a parolee or has a pending request for reparole; or
- (iv) The applicant is a spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant.
- (g) Has filed an application for late registration with the appropriate Service director within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of conditions described in paragraph (f)(2) of this section.

The phrase continuously physically present, as defined in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, means actual physical presence in the United States for the entire period specified in the regulations. An alien shall not be considered to have failed to maintain continuous physical presence in the United States by virtue of brief, casual, and innocent absences as defined within this section.

The phrase continuously resided, as defined in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, means residing in the United States for the entire period specified in the regulations. An alien shall not be considered to have failed to maintain continuous residence in the United States by reason of a brief, casual and innocent absence as defined within this section or due merely to a brief temporary trip abroad required by emergency or extenuating circumstances outside the control of the alien.

Persons applying for TPS offered to El Salvadorans must demonstrate continuous residence in the United States since February 13, 2001, and continuous physical presence in the United States since March 9, 2001. The initial registration period for El Salvadorans was from March 9, 2001, through September 9, 2002. The record reflects that the applicant filed her initial Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, with Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) on April 29, 2005 - more than two years and seven months after the initial registration period had ended.

To qualify for late registration, the applicant must provide evidence that during the initial registration period she fell within at least one of the provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2) above.

The burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that she meets the above requirements. Applicants shall submit all documentation as required in the instructions or requested by CIS. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a). The sufficiency of all evidence will be judged according to its relevancy, consistency, credibility, and probative value. To meet her burden of proof, the applicant must provide supporting documentary evidence of eligibility apart from her own statements. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(b).

On November 16, 2006, the director requested the applicant to submit evidence to establish her nationality/identity, and her eligibility for late registration. The applicant was also requested to submit evidence establishing her qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite time periods. The applicant was informed that such evidence may include, but was not limited to, employment or school records, rent/mortgage payment receipts, bank or insurance documents, medical or utility bills, or other similar materials. The applicant responded with some additional documentation on December 18, 2006.

The director determined that the documentation submitted was insufficient to establish that the applicant had continuously resided in the United States since February 13, 2001, and had been continuously physically present in the United States since March 9, 2001. The director denied the application on May 21, 2007. The applicant, through counsel, filed her appeal from that decision on June 20, 2007.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the applicant should have been granted TPS as the child of a person who had been granted such classification, and that the regulations are overly restrictive since a dependent child maintains the domicile of the parents even if the child is outside the United States.

The applicant has submitted sufficient evidence to establish that she is the child of an alien who is currently eligible to be a TPS registrant, and, therefore, is eligible to file a late application for TPS under the provisions of 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2)(iv). However, the late registration provisions do not relax the other requirements for TPS eligibility.

It is concluded that the applicant has failed to submit any evidence that she has been continuously physically present in the United States since March 9, 2001, and continuously resident in the United States since February 13, 2001, as required under 8 C.F.R. §§ 244.2(b) and (c). In fact, the applicant claims on her Form I-821 that she did not enter the United States until May 6, 2004. Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for these reasons will be affirmed.

The application will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. An alien applying for Temporary Protected Status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

The record indicates that the applicant was placed in removal proceedings immediately after her entry into the United States in May 2004, and on April 26, 2005, was granted voluntary departure until August 24, 2005, by an Immigration Judge in Newark, New Jersey.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
