Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center (VSC), and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Honduras who is applying for Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director denied the application because the applicant failed to establish he was eligible for late registration. The director also found the applicant failed to establish his qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite time periods.

On appeal, the applicant submits a brief statement.

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2, provide that an applicant is eligible for TPS only if such alien establishes that he or she:

- (a) Is a national, as defined in section 101(a)(21) of the Act, of a foreign state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;
- (b) Has been continuously physically present in the United States since the effective date of the most recent designation of that foreign state;
- (c) Has continuously resided in the United States since such date as the Attorney General may designate;
- (d) Is admissible as an immigrant except as provided under section 244.3;
- (e) Is not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 244.4; and
- (f) (1) Registers for TPS during the initial registration period announced by public notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, or
(2) During any subsequent extension of such designation if at the time of the initial registration period:
  - (i) The applicant is a nonimmigrant or has been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
  - (ii) The applicant has an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal which is pending or subject to further review or appeal;
  - (iii) The applicant is a parolee or has a pending request for reparole; or

- (iv) The applicant is a spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant.
- (g) Has filed an application for late registration with the appropriate Service director within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of conditions described in paragraph (f)(2) of this section.

Persons applying for TPS offered to Hondurans must demonstrate that they have continuously resided in the United States since December 30, 1998, and that they have been continuously physically present since January 5, 1999. The initial registration period for Hondurans was from January 5, 1999, through August 20, 1999. The record reveals that the applicant filed his initial Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, with Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS) on June 5, 2006 - more than six years and nine months after the initial registration period had ended.

To qualify for late registration, the applicant must provide evidence that during the initial registration period he fell within at least one of the provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2) above.

The burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that he meets the above requirements. Applicants shall submit all documentation as required in the instructions or requested by CIS. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a). The sufficiency of all evidence will be judged according to its relevancy, consistency, credibility, and probative value. To meet his burden of proof the applicant must provide supporting documentary evidence of eligibility apart from his own statements. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(b).

In support of his initial TPS application, the applicant submitted a letter and a photocopy of his Honduran birth certificate, with English translation.

On September 22, 2006, the applicant was requested to submit evidence establishing his eligibility for late registration as set forth in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). The applicant was also requested to submit evidence establishing his qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite time periods. The applicant was informed that such evidence may include, but was not limited to, employment or school records, rent/mortgage payment receipts, bank or insurance documents, medical or utility bills, or other similar materials. In response, the applicant submitted three letters from acquaintances (two of which were un-signed) attesting to their knowledge of the applicant, and a photocopy of a letter from Fells Masonry, Inc., Alexandria, Virginia, dated October 3, 2006, stating that the applicant had been employed by the company since 1999.

The director determined that the applicant failed to establish that he was eligible for late registration, and failed to establish his qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite time periods. The director denied the application on December 1, 2007.

On appeal, the applicant asks for the opportunity to work legally in the United States in order to support his family.

The record confirms that the applicant filed his TPS application after the initial registration period had expired. The applicant has not submitted any evidence to establish that he has met any of the criteria for late registration described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for failure to establish eligibility for late registration will be affirmed.

The applicant claims to have lived in the United States from October 17, 1998, to the date of filing his TPS application on June 5, 2006. It is reasonable to expect that he would have a variety of contemporaneous evidence to support this claim. Letters from acquaintances are not, by themselves, persuasive evidence of continuous residence and continuous physical presence. Furthermore, the employment letter has little evidentiary weight or probative value as it does not provide basic information that is expressly required by 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a)(2)(i). Specifically, it is not in the form of an affidavit and does not provide the address where the applicant resided during the period of his employment, the exact period(s) of employment, and the period(s) of layoff (if any). Furthermore, it is not supported by any corroborative documentation, such as pay stubs, company employment records, and/or tax statements.

Based on a review of the record, it is concluded that the applicant has not submitted sufficient credible evidence to establish that he was continuously physically present in the United States from March 9, 2001 to the date he filed for TPS on June 5, 2006, and has been continuously resident in the United States since February 13, 2001, as required under 8 C.F.R. §§ 244.2(b) and (c). Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for these reasons will also be affirmed.

It is noted that CIS records reflect that the applicant was apprehended entering the United States without inspection on December 30, 1993. He was subsequently ordered deported from the United States to Honduras by an Immigration Judge on June 28, 1995, and departed on July 13, 1995.

The application will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. An alien applying for Temporary Protected Status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
