IN RE: Applicant: [REDACTED]

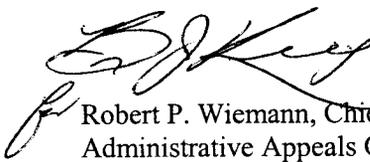

APPLICATION: Application for Temporary Protected Status under Section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1254

ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center. A subsequent appeal was dismissed by the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO). The matter is now before the AAO on a motion to reopen. The motion will be granted, and the previous decision of the AAO to dismiss the appeal will be affirmed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

An alien shall not be eligible for temporary protected status under this section if the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security finds that the alien has been convicted of any felony or two or more misdemeanors committed in the United States. See Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a).

8 C.F.R. § 244.1 defines “felony” and “misdemeanor:”

Felony means a crime committed in the United States, punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, except: When the offense is defined by the State as a misdemeanor and the sentence actually imposed is one year or less regardless of the term such alien actually served. Under this exception for purposes of section 244 of the Act, the crime shall be treated as a misdemeanor.

Misdemeanor means a crime committed in the United States, either

- (1) Punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, or
- (2) A crime treated as a misdemeanor under the term "felony" of this section.

For purposes of this definition, any crime punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor.

The director denied the application on April 10, 2002, after determining that the applicant was ineligible for TPS, pursuant to section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act, based on his convictions of two misdemeanors committed in the United States; namely: (1) VTL 1192.1, driving while ability impaired, on February 3, 1997; and (2) VTL 509.1, unlicensed driver, on February 3, 1997.

The AAO reviewed the record of proceeding and noted that counsel, on appeal, argued that the applicant's convictions are not misdemeanors, but rather, VTL 1192.1 is a “traffic infraction,” and VTL 509.1 is a “violation.” However, the penalties for VTL 1192.1 and VTL 509.1 can carry possible sentences of imprisonment for up to fifteen days each; therefore, for immigration purposes, these offenses are considered misdemeanors as defined by 8 C.F.R. § 244.1. The AAO concurred with the director's decision to deny the application and dismissed the appeal on December 27, 2002.

On motion, counsel asserts that the applicant was not convicted of two misdemeanors. She reiterates that VTL 1192.1 is a traffic infraction and VTL 509.1 is a violation. Counsel contends that while the AAO correctly pointed out that these offenses are punishable for a term of no more than fifteen days, the AAO did not establish that the traffic infraction and violation convictions are “crimes.” She cites NYVTL § 155 that states, in pertinent part: “A traffic infraction is not a crime.”

Counsel further cites NYPL § 10.00, subsections 2, 3, 4, and 6:

Subsection 2: "Traffic infraction" means an offense defined as "traffic infraction" by section one hundred fifty-five of the vehicle and traffic law.

Subsection 3. "Violation" means an offense, other than a "traffic infraction," for which a sentence to a term of imprisonment in excess of fifteen days cannot be imposed.

Subsection 4: "Misdemeanor" means an offense, other than a "traffic infraction," for which a sentence to a term of imprisonment in excess of fifteen days may be imposed, but for which a sentence to a term of imprisonment in excess of one year cannot be imposed.

Subsection 6: "Crime" means a misdemeanor or a felony.

Counsel's assertions are not persuasive. Federal immigration laws should be applied uniformly, without regard to the nuances of state law. See Ye v. INS, 214 F.3d 1128, 1132 (9th Cir. 2000); Burr v. INS, 350 F.2d 87, 90 (9th Cir. 1965). Thus, whether a particular offense under state law constitutes a "misdemeanor" for immigration purposes is strictly a matter of federal law. See Franklin v. INS, 72 F.3d 571 (8th Cir. 1995); Cabral v. INS, 15 F.3d 193, 196 n.5 (1st Cir. 1994). While we must look to relevant state law in order to determine whether the statutory elements of a specific offense satisfy the regulatory definition of "misdemeanor," the legal nomenclature employed by a particular state to classify an offense or the consequences a state chooses to place on an offense in its own courts under its own laws does not control the consequences given to the offense in a federal immigration proceeding. See Yazdchi v. INS, 878 F.2d 166, 167 (5th Cir. 1989); Babouris V. Esperdy, 269 F.2d 621, 623 (2d Cir. 1959); United States v. Flores-Rodriguez, 237 F.2d 405,409 (2d Cir. 1956).

The fact that New York's legal taxonomy classifies the applicant's offense as a "violation" or "traffic infraction" rather than a "crime," and precludes the offense from giving rise to any criminal disabilities in New York, is simply not relevant to the question of whether the offense qualifies as a "misdemeanor" for immigration purposes. As cited above, for immigration purposes, a misdemeanor is any offense that is punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any. It is also noted that offenses that are punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor. In this case, New York law provides that violations of NY VTL 1192.1 and VTL 509.1 are punishable by up to 15 days of incarceration. Therefore, it is concluded that the applicant's convictions qualify as "misdemeanors" as defined for immigration purposes in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

Because the applicant was convicted of offenses for which he could have received jail sentences of more than five days, he has, for immigration purposes, been convicted of the misdemeanor offenses. 8 C.F.R. § 244.1. Therefore, the applicant remains ineligible for TPS based on his convictions of two misdemeanors committed in the United States. Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a). Accordingly, the decision of the AAO dated December 27, 2002, will be affirmed.

As always in these proceedings, the burden of proof rests solely with the applicant. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361.

ORDER: The decision of the AAO dated December 27, 2002, dismissing the appeal, is affirmed.
