

identifying data deleted to prevent clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy

U.S. Department of Homeland Security
U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services
Administrative Appeals Office (AAO)
20 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., MS 2090
Washington, DC 20529-2090

U.S. Citizenship
and Immigration Services

PUBLIC COPY

B6

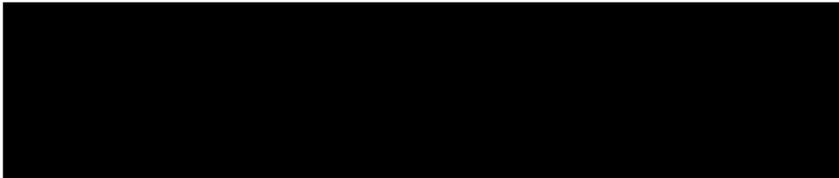

FILE: [redacted] Office: TEXAS SERVICE CENTER Date:

JAN 12 2011

IN RE: Petitioner: [redacted]
Beneficiary: [redacted]

PETITION: Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker as Any Other Worker, Unskilled (requiring less than two years of training or experience), pursuant to Section 203(b)(3) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

Enclosed please find the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All of the documents related to this matter have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Please be advised that any further inquiry that you might have concerning your case must be made to that office.

If you believe the law was inappropriately applied by us in reaching our decision, or you have additional information that you wish to have considered, you may file a motion to reconsider or a motion to reopen. The specific requirements for filing such a request can be found at 8 C.F.R. § 103.5. All motions must be submitted to the office that originally decided your case by filing a Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion with a fee of $630. Please be aware that 8 C.F.R. § 103.5(a)(1)(i) requires that any motion must be filed within 30 days of the decision that the motion seeks to reconsider or reopen.

Thank you,

Elizabeth McCormack

Perry Rhew
Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center. It then came before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. During the adjudication of the appeal, evidence came to light that the petitioning corporation in this matter, [REDACTED] was administratively dissolved as of September 25, 2009. On October 5, 2010, this office provided the petitioner with the opportunity to provide evidence that might overcome this information. In response, the petitioner submitted a printout from the Florida Secretary of State showing that the current status of the petitioning corporation is active. The printout also reflects that the petitioner was reinstated on October 2, 2010 with the Florida Secretary of State.<sup>1</sup> The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a catering company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a chef. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by a Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification, approved by the United States Department of Labor (DOL). The director denied the petition, finding that the petitioner did not have sufficient net income or net current assets to pay the proffered wage. The director also identified that the petitioner did not employ the beneficiary during the qualifying period.

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed, timely and makes a specific allegation of error in law or fact. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

As set forth in the director's August 8, 2008 denial, the single issue in this case is whether or not the petitioner has the ability to pay the proffered wage as of the priority date and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(iii), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing unskilled labor, not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

---

<sup>1</sup> Under Florida law, the reinstatement relates back to and takes effect as of the effective date of the administrative dissolution, and the corporation resumes its affairs as if the dissolution had never occurred. Florida code Title 36 Chapter 607.1422.

The petitioner must demonstrate the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage beginning on the priority date. The priority date is established when the petitioner files the Form ETA 750 with any office within the employment system of the DOL. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d). The petitioner must also demonstrate that, on the priority date, the beneficiary had the qualifications stated on its Form ETA 750 as certified by the DOL and submitted with the instant petition. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977).

Here, the Form ETA 750 was filed by the petitioner and accepted for processing by the DOL on April 24, 2001. The rate of pay or the proffered wage specified on that form is $15.33 per hour or $27,900 per year based on a 35-hour work week.<sup>2</sup>

To show that it has the ability to pay $15.33 per hour or $27,900 per year beginning on April 24, 2001, the petitioner submitted the following evidence:

- Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Forms 1120S, U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation, for 2001-2006;
- Income Statements and Balance Sheets for 2001-2006; and
- A letter from the petitioner's tax preparer, [REDACTED] explaining why the petitioner reported net loss for tax years 2001-2003.

The evidence in the record of proceeding shows that the petitioner is structured as an S corporation with [REDACTED] as the sole shareholder of the corporation. On the petition, the petitioner claimed to have been established on October 4, 1985,<sup>3</sup> to currently employ six workers, and to have gross annual income and net annual income of $499,852 and $32,974, respectively.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>2</sup> The total hours per week indicated on the approved Form ETA 750 is 35 hours. This is permitted so long as the job opportunity is for a permanent and full-time position. See 20 C.F.R. §§ 656.3; 656.10(c)(10). The DOL precedent establishes that full-time means at least 35 hours or more per week. See Memo, Farmer, Admin. for Reg'l. Mngm't., Div. of Foreign Labor Certification, DOL Field Memo No. 48-94 (May 16, 1994).

<sup>3</sup> A search of the Florida Secretary of State's website reveals that [REDACTED] or the petitioner was incorporated on October 17, 1985.

<sup>4</sup> The submission of additional evidence on appeal is allowed by the instructions to the Form I-290B, which are incorporated into the regulations by the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(1).

The petitioner must establish that its job offer to the beneficiary is a realistic one. Because the filing of an ETA 750 labor certification application establishes a priority date for any immigration petition later based on the ETA 750, the petitioner must establish that the job offer was realistic as of the priority date and that the offer remained realistic for each year thereafter, until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. The petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is an essential element in evaluating whether a job offer is realistic. See Matter of Great Wall, 16 I&N Dec. 142 (Acting Reg. Comm. 1977); see also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2). In evaluating whether a job offer is realistic, United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) requires the petitioner to demonstrate financial resources sufficient to pay the beneficiary's proffered wages, although the totality of the circumstances affecting the petitioning business will be considered if the evidence warrants such consideration. See Matter of Sonogawa, 12 I&N Dec. 612 (Reg. Comm. 1967).

In determining the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage during a given period, USCIS will first examine whether the petitioner employed and paid the beneficiary during that period. If the petitioner establishes by documentary evidence that it employed the beneficiary at a salary equal to or greater than the proffered wage, the evidence will be considered prima facie proof of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

In the instant case, no evidence has been submitted to show that the beneficiary worked for the petitioner during any relevant time frame including the period from the priority date or subsequently.

When the petitioner does not establish that it employed and paid the beneficiary an amount at least equal to the proffered wage during that period, USCIS will next examine the net income figure reflected on the petitioner's federal income tax return, without consideration of depreciation or other expenses. River Street Donuts, LLC v. Napolitano, 558 F.3d 111 (1st Cir. 2009); Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d 873 (E.D. Mich. 2010). Reliance on federal income tax returns as a basis for determining a petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is well established by judicial precedent. Elatos Restaurant Corp. v. Sava, 632 F. Supp. 1049, 1054 (S.D.N.Y. 1986) (citing Tongatapu Woodcraft Hawaii, Ltd. v. Feldman, 736 F.2d 1305 (9th Cir. 1984)); see also Chi-Feng Chang v. Thornburgh, 719 F. Supp. 532 (N.D. Texas 1989); K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. 1080 (S.D.N.Y. 1985); Ubeda v. Palmer, 539 F. Supp. 647 (N.D. Ill. 1982), aff'd, 703 F.2d 571 (7th Cir. 1983). Reliance on the petitioner's gross receipts and wage expense is misplaced. Showing that the petitioner's gross receipts exceeded the proffered wage is insufficient. Similarly, showing that the petitioner paid wages in excess of the proffered wage is insufficient.

In K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. at 1084, the court held that the Immigration and Naturalization Service, now USCIS, had properly relied on the petitioner's net income figure, as stated on the petitioner's corporate income tax returns, rather than the petitioner's gross income. The court specifically rejected the argument that USCIS should have considered income before expenses were paid rather than net income. See Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d at 881 (gross profits overstate an employer's ability to pay because it ignores other necessary expenses).

---

The record in the instant case provides no reason to preclude consideration of any of the documents newly submitted on appeal. See Matter of Soriano, 19 I&N Dec. 764 (BIA 1988).

With respect to depreciation, the court in River Street Donuts noted:

The AAO recognized that a depreciation deduction is a systematic allocation of the cost of a tangible long-term asset and does not represent a specific cash expenditure during the year claimed. Furthermore, the AAO indicated that the allocation of the depreciation of a long-term asset could be spread out over the years or concentrated into a few depending on the petitioner's choice of accounting and depreciation methods. Nonetheless, the AAO explained that depreciation represents an actual cost of doing business, which could represent either the diminution in value of buildings and equipment or the accumulation of funds necessary to replace perishable equipment and buildings. Accordingly, the AAO stressed that even though amounts deducted for depreciation do not represent current use of cash, neither does it represent amounts available to pay wages.

We find that the AAO has a rational explanation for its policy of not adding depreciation back to net income. Namely, that the amount spent on a long term tangible asset is a "real" expense.

River Street Donuts at 118. "[USCIS] and judicial precedent support the use of tax returns and the net income figures in determining petitioner's ability to pay. Plaintiffs' argument that these figures should be revised by the court by adding back depreciation is without support." Chi-Feng Chang at 537 (emphasis added).

The record before the director closed on July 23, 2008 with the receipt by the director of the petitioner's submissions in response to the director's request for evidence (RFE). As of that date, the record included the petitioner's federal income tax returns for the years 2001 through 2006. The petitioner's tax returns demonstrate its net income for 2001-2006, as shown in the table below.

- In 2001, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss)<sup>5</sup> of ($79,897).

---

<sup>5</sup> Where an S corporation's income is exclusively from a trade or business, USCIS considers net income to be the figure for ordinary income, shown on line 21 of page one of the petitioner's IRS Form 1120S. However, where an S corporation has income, credits, deductions or other adjustments from sources other than a trade or business, they are reported on Schedule K. If the Schedule K has relevant entries for additional income, credits, deductions or other adjustments, net income is found on line 23 (1997-2003) line 17e (2004-2005) line 18 (2006) of Schedule K.

- In 2002, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss) of ($7,977).
- In 2003, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss) of ($11,212).
- In 2004, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss) of $44,765.
- In 2005, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss) of $89,814.
- In 2006, the Form 1120S stated net income (loss) of $32,974.

Based on the table above, the petitioner did not have sufficient net income to pay the proffered wage of $27,900 per year from 2001 to 2003.

As an alternate means of determining the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage, USCIS may review the petitioner's net current assets. Net current assets are the difference between the petitioner's current assets and current liabilities.<sup>6</sup> A corporation's year-end current assets are shown on Schedule L, lines 1 through 6. Its year-end current liabilities are shown on lines 16 through 18. If the total of a corporation's end-of-year net current assets and the wages paid to the beneficiary (if any) are equal to or greater than the proffered wage, the petitioner is expected to be able to pay the proffered wage using those net current assets. The petitioner's tax returns demonstrate its end-of-year net current assets (liabilities) for 2001-2003, as shown in the table below.

- In 2001, the Form 1120S stated net current assets (liabilities) of ($8,393).
- In 2002, the Form 1120S stated net current assets (liabilities) of ($95).
- In 2003, the Form 1120S stated net current assets (liabilities) of ($11,252).

Therefore, the petitioner did not have sufficient net current assets to pay the proffered wage in any of those years.

Based on the net income and net current assets analysis above, it is concluded that from the date the Form ETA 750 was accepted for processing by the DOL, the petitioner had not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage.

---

See Instructions for Form 1120S, 2006, at <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-prior/i1120s--2006.pdf> (accessed on September 1, 2010) (indicating that Schedule K is a summary schedule of all shareholder's shares of the corporation's income, deductions, credits, etc.). Here, since the petitioner had additional income, credits, deductions, and other adjustments shown on its Schedule K, its net income is found in schedule K.

<sup>6</sup> According to Barron's Dictionary of Accounting Terms 117 (3rd ed. 2000), "current assets" consist of items having (in most cases) a life of one year or less, such as cash, marketable securities, inventory and prepaid expenses. "Current liabilities" are obligations payable (in most cases) within one year, such accounts payable, short-term notes payable, and accrued expenses (such as taxes and salaries). Id. at 118.

On appeal, the petitioner offers a letter from its tax preparer, [REDACTED] to show that it has the ability to pay the proffered wage, specifically in 2001, 2002, and 2003. In his letter, [REDACTED] states that in 2001 and 2002 the petitioning corporation was in the process of discontinuing its restaurant operation and starting a new catering operation, and for those reasons, it incurred additional expenses in the form of startup expenses in the catering operation during the years 2001 and 2002. [REDACTED] also asserts that the loss from the restaurant operations and depreciation expenses are considered noncash expenses and therefore, should be added back to the petitioner's net loss in 2001, 2002, and 2003.

[REDACTED] assertions about the discontinuation of the restaurant operation and the starting of the catering operation are without support. His statement concerning additional expenses to start a catering business is also not supported by any evidence. Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm. 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg. Comm. 1972)).

As for depreciation, the court in River Street Donuts, supra has held that a depreciation expense is a real expense, and thus, it should not be added back to boost or reduce the company's net income or loss. By the same token, annual depreciation expense should not be added back to net assets.

Similarly, the loss from the restaurant operation is loss that should not be added back to the petitioner's net income (loss).

Finally, USCIS may consider the overall magnitude of the petitioner's business activities in its determination of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. See Matter of Sonogawa, 12 I&N Dec. 612. The petitioning entity in Sonogawa had been in business for over 11 years and routinely earned a gross annual income of about $100,000. During the year in which the petition was filed in that case, the petitioner changed business locations and paid rent on both the old and new locations for five months. There were large moving costs and also a period of time when the petitioner was unable to do regular business. The Regional Commissioner determined that the petitioner's prospects for a resumption of successful business operations were well established. The petitioner was a fashion designer whose work had been featured in Time and Look magazines. Her clients included Miss Universe, movie actresses, and society matrons. The petitioner's clients had been included in the lists of the best-dressed California women. The petitioner lectured on fashion design at design and fashion shows throughout the United States and at colleges and universities in California. The Regional Commissioner's determination in Sonogawa was based in part on the petitioner's sound business reputation and outstanding reputation as a couturiere. As in Sonogawa, USCIS may, at its discretion, consider evidence relevant to the petitioner's financial ability that falls outside of a petitioner's net income and net current assets. USCIS may consider such factors as the number of years the petitioner has been doing business, the established historical growth of the petitioner's business, the overall number of employees, the occurrence of any uncharacteristic business expenditures or losses, the petitioner's reputation within its industry, whether the beneficiary is replacing a former employee or an outsourced service, or any other evidence that USCIS deems relevant to the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

In the instant case, no evidence has been presented to show that the petitioning corporation has a sound and outstanding business reputation as in Sonegawa. Unlike Sonegawa, the petitioner has not submitted any evidence, reflecting the company's reputation or historical growth since its inception in 1985. Nor has it included any evidence or detailed explanation of the corporation's milestone achievements. The record does not contain any newspapers or magazine articles, awards, or certifications indicating the company's accomplishments. Further, the tax returns do not reflect a pattern of historic growth or the occurrence of an uncharacteristic business expenditure or loss that would explain its inability to pay the proffered wage as of the filing date and continuing through the present. As noted above, the letter from the petitioner's tax preparer does not refer to or attach any supporting documents indicating that the losses registered in 2001, 2002, and 2003 were a result of uncharacteristic expenditures, e.g. closing down the restaurant and establishing the catering business.

In determining a petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage, the fundamental focus of the USCIS determination is whether the employer is making a realistic job offer and has the overall financial ability to satisfy the proffered wage. Matter of Great Wall, supra. After a review of the petitioner's tax returns, this office does not believe that the petitioner has the ability to pay the salary offered as of the priority date and continuing to present. The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.