DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center. It then came before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. On July 22, 2011, this office provided the petitioner with notice of adverse information in the record and afforded the petitioner an opportunity to provide evidence that might overcome this information.

The petitioner is a restaurant. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a specialty cook. As required by statute, a labor certification approved by the Department of Labor accompanied the petition. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage beginning on the priority date of the visa petition. Therefore, the director denied the petition.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.¹

On July 22, 2011, this office notified the petitioner that according to the records, [REDACTED] Inc. was involuntarily dissolved in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and that its current status is involuntarily dissolved.

If the petitioner is currently not in good standing, this is material to whether the job offer, as outlined on the immigrant petition filed by this organization, is a bona fide job offer. Moreover, any such concealment of the true status of the organization by the petitioner seriously compromises the credibility of the remaining evidence in the record. See Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. 582, 586 (BIA 1988)(stating that doubt cast on any aspect of the petitioner's proof may lead to a reevaluation of the reliability and sufficiency of the remaining evidence offered in support of the visa petition.). It is incumbent upon the petitioner to resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent objective evidence, and attempts to explain or reconcile such inconsistencies, absent competent objective evidence pointing to where the truth, in fact, lies, will not suffice. See id.

This office allowed the petitioner 45 days in which to provide evidence that the records maintained by [REDACTED] were not accurate and that the petitioner remains in operation as a viable business or was in operation during the pendency of the petition and appeal. The petitioner was also asked to submit evidence of any claimed successor-in-interest relationship, the petitioner's continuing ability to pay the proffered wage, the beneficiary's qualifications for the job, and a possible familial relationship between the beneficiary and the petitioner's owner. More than 45 days have passed and the petitioner has failed to respond to this office's request. It is noted that the notice was sent to the petitioner's and to counsel's last known address. There has been no response from the petitioner or from the attorney of record, to date. Thus, the appeal will be dismissed as abandoned. Failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material lie of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14).

¹ The submission of additional evidence on appeal is allowed by the instructions to the Form I-290B, which are incorporated into the regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(1).

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
