DISCUSSION: The Director, Texas Service Center (the director), denied the immigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed as abandoned pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13)(i).

The petitioner describes itself as a computer software engineering firm. It seeks to permanently employ the beneficiary in the United States as a software engineer-networking. The petitioner requests classification of the beneficiary as a skilled worker pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i). The petition is accompanied by a labor certification approved by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL).

The director's decision denying the petition concluded that the petitioner had failed to demonstrate that the beneficiary met the minimum requirements for the proffered position as of the priority date.

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed and makes a specific allegation of error in law or fact. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.¹ On appeal, the petitioner submitted a credentials evaluation, an Electronic Database for Global Education (EDGE) printout and a copy of the beneficiary's transcripts and Master of Science degree in business information technology, completed on November 14, 2012.

On August 16, 2013, the AAO sent the petitioner a notice of intent to dismiss the appeal (NOID). The NOID indicated that, while the beneficiary had obtained the equivalent of a U.S. Master's degree, the beneficiary did not possess this education until after the priority date of April 24, 2012. The AAO found that the beneficiary's diploma in Applied Electronics, completed in 1998, was not equivalent to a U.S. bachelor's degree and there was no evidence in the record to establish that the petitioner's intent to permit an alternative to a U.S. bachelor's degree or a single foreign equivalent degree was clearly stated to the DOL and U.S. workers. The AAO found that the beneficiary did not, therefore, meet the minimum requirements of the labor certification by the priority date. The AAO also found that the petitioner had failed to establish its ability to pay the proffered wage. The NOID allowed the petitioner 45 days in which to submit a response. The AAO informed the petitioner that failure to respond to the NOID would result in a dismissal of the appeal.

As of the date of this decision, the petitioner has not responded to the AAO's NOID. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14). As the petitioner failed to respond to the NOID, the appeal will be summarily dismissed as abandoned pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13)(i).

In visa petition proceedings, it is the petitioner's burden to establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361; Matter of Otiende, 26 I&N Dec. 127, 128 (BIA 2013). Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
