

U.S. Department of Homeland Security
U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services
Administrative Appeals Office (AAO)
20 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., MS 2090
Washington, DC 20529-2090

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services

(b)(6)

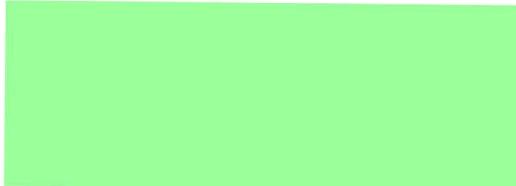

MAR 06 2014

DATE: OFFICE: NEBRASKA SERVICE CENTER

IN RE: Petitioner:
Beneficiary:

PETITION: Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker as a Professional Pursuant to Section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(ii)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

Enclosed please find the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) in your case.

This is a non-precedent decision. The AAO does not announce new constructions of law nor establish agency policy through non-precedent decisions. If you believe the AAO incorrectly applied current law or policy to your case or if you seek to present new facts for consideration, you may file a motion to reconsider or a motion to reopen, respectively. Any motion must be filed on a Notice of Appeal or Motion (Form I-290B) within 33 days of the date of this decision. Please review the Form I-290B instructions at <http://www.uscis.gov/forms> for the latest information on fee, filing location, and other requirements. See also 8 C.F.R. § 103.5. Do not file a motion directly with the AAO.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Ron Rosenberg".

Ron Rosenberg
Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, Nebraska Service Center, denied the immigrant visa petition and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner describes itself as a software development and design company. It seeks to permanently employ the beneficiary in the United States as a technical architecture consultant. On the Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker, the petitioner marked box “e” at Part 2, indicating that it seeks to classify the beneficiary as a professional pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(ii).

The petition is accompanied by an ETA Form 9089, Application for Permanent Employment Certification (labor certification), certified by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). The priority date of the petition, which is the date the DOL accepted the labor certification for processing, is December 7, 2011. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d).

The director’s decision denying the petition concludes that the labor certification did not support the immigrant classification requested and that the beneficiary did not possess a U.S. bachelor’s degree or foreign equivalent as required by the terms of the labor certification and for classification as a professional.

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed and makes a specific allegation of error in law or fact. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.¹

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States. Section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who hold baccalaureate degrees and are members of the professions. See also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(2).

In this case, the labor certification indicates that an alternative to a bachelor’s degree would be accepted for the proffered position. Specifically, the petitioner indicates in Section H.8 of the ETA

¹ The submission of additional evidence on appeal is allowed by the instructions to the Form I-290B, which are incorporated into the regulations by 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(1). The record in the instant case provides no reason to preclude consideration of any of the documents newly submitted on appeal. See Matter of Soriano, 19 I&N Dec. 764 (BIA 1988).

Form 9089 that “any combination of education, experience or training equal to a BS degree” would be accepted. However, the petitioner requested the professional classification on the Form I-140. A labor certification that does not require at least a four-year U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree does not support a petition for a professional. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(i) (the labor certification underlying a petition for a professional must require at least a U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree). There is no provision in statute or regulation that compels United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to readjudicate a petition under a different visa classification in response to a petitioner’s request to change it, once the decision has been rendered. A petitioner may not make material changes to a petition in an effort to make a deficient petition conform to USCIS requirements. See Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169, 176 (Assoc. Comm’r 1988).

The evidence submitted does not establish that the petition requires at least a bachelor’s degree such that the beneficiary may be found qualified for classification as a professional. As such, the labor certification does not support the immigrant category requested and will be denied on this issue.

In addition, the petitioner did not establish that the beneficiary qualified for the proffered position. At the outset, it is important to discuss the respective roles of the DOL and USCIS in the employment-based immigrant visa process. As noted above, the labor certification in this matter is certified by the DOL. The DOL’s role in this process is set forth at section 212(a)(5)(A)(i) of the Act, which provides:

Any alien who seeks to enter the United States for the purpose of performing skilled or unskilled labor is inadmissible, unless the Secretary of Labor has determined and certified to the Secretary of State and the Attorney General that-

- (I) there are not sufficient workers who are able, willing, qualified (or equally qualified in the case of an alien described in clause (ii)) and available at the time of application for a visa and admission to the United States and at the place where the alien is to perform such skilled or unskilled labor, and
- (II) the employment of such alien will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

It is significant that none of the above inquiries assigned to the DOL, or the regulations implementing these duties under 20 C.F.R. § 656, involve a determination as to whether the position and the alien are qualified for a specific immigrant classification. This fact has not gone unnoticed by federal circuit courts:

There is no doubt that the authority to make preference classification decisions rests with INS. The language of section 204 cannot be read otherwise. See Castaneda-Gonzalez v. INS, 564 F.2d 417, 429 (D.C. Cir. 1977). In turn, DOL has the authority to make the two determinations listed in section 212(a)(14).² Id. at 423. The necessary result of these two grants of authority is that section 212(a)(14) determinations are not subject to review by INS absent fraud or willful misrepresentation, but all matters relating to preference classification eligibility not expressly delegated to DOL remain within INS' authority.

Given the language of the Act, the totality of the legislative history, and the agencies' own interpretations of their duties under the Act, we must conclude that Congress did not intend DOL to have primary authority to make any determinations other than the two stated in section 212(a)(14). If DOL is to analyze alien qualifications, it is for the purpose of "matching" them with those of corresponding United States workers so that it will then be "in a position to meet the requirement of the law," namely the section 212(a)(14) determinations.

Madany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008, 1012-1013 (D.C. Cir. 1983). Relying in part on Madany, 696 F.2d at 1008, the Ninth Circuit stated:

[I]t appears that the DOL is responsible only for determining the availability of suitable American workers for a job and the impact of alien employment upon the domestic labor market. It does not appear that the DOL's role extends to determining if the alien is qualified for the job for which he seeks sixth preference status. That determination appears to be delegated to the INS under section 204(b), 8 U.S.C. § 1154(b), as one of the determinations incident to the INS's decision whether the alien is entitled to sixth preference status.

K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006, 1008 (9th Cir. 1983). The court relied on an amicus brief from the DOL that stated the following:

The labor certification made by the Secretary of Labor . . . pursuant to section 212(a)(14) of the [Act] is binding as to the findings of whether there are able, willing, qualified, and available United States workers for the job offered to the alien, and whether employment of the alien under the terms set by the employer would adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed United States workers. The labor certification in no way indicates that the alien offered the certified job opportunity is qualified (or not qualified) to perform the duties of that job.

(Emphasis added.) Id. at 1009. The Ninth Circuit, citing K.R.K. Irvine, Inc., 699 F.2d at 1006, revisited this issue, stating:

² Based on revisions to the Act, the current citation is section 212(a)(5)(A).

The Department of Labor (DOL) must certify that insufficient domestic workers are available to perform the job and that the alien's performance of the job will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed domestic workers. Id. § 212(a)(14), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(14). The INS then makes its own determination of the alien's entitlement to sixth preference status. Id. § 204(b), 8 U.S.C. § 1154(b). See generally K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006, 1008 9th Cir.1983).

The INS, therefore, may make a de novo determination of whether the alien is in fact qualified to fill the certified job offer.

Tongatapu Woodcraft Hawaii, Ltd. v. Feldman, 736 F. 2d 1305, 1309 (9th Cir. 1984).

Therefore, it is the DOL's responsibility to determine whether there are qualified U.S. workers available to perform the offered position, and whether the employment of the beneficiary will adversely affect similarly employed U.S. workers. It is the responsibility of USCIS to determine if the beneficiary qualifies for the offered position, and whether the offered position and beneficiary are eligible for the requested employment-based immigrant visa classification.

In the instant case, the petitioner requests classification of the beneficiary as a professional. Section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(ii), grants preference classification to qualified immigrants who hold baccalaureate degrees and are members of the professions. See also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(2).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) states, in part:

If the petition is for a professional, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the alien holds a United States baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree and by evidence that the alien is a member of the professions. Evidence of a baccalaureate degree shall be in the form of an official college or university record showing the date the baccalaureate degree was awarded and the area of concentration of study.

Section 101(a)(32) of the Act defines the term "profession" to include, but is not limited to, "architects, engineers, lawyers, physicians, surgeons, and teachers in elementary or secondary schools, colleges, academies, or seminaries." If the offered position is not statutorily defined as a profession, "the petitioner must submit evidence showing that the minimum of a baccalaureate degree is required for entry into the occupation." 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C).

In addition, the job offer portion of the labor certification underlying a petition for a professional “must demonstrate that the job requires the minimum of a baccalaureate degree.” 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(i)

Therefore, a petition for a professional must establish that the occupation of the offered position is listed as a profession at section 101(a)(32) of the Act or requires a bachelor’s degree as a minimum for entry; the beneficiary possesses at least a U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree from a college or university; and the job offer portion of the labor certification requires at least a bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree.

The beneficiary must also meet all of the requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification by the priority date of the petition. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(1), (12). See Matter of Wing’s Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158, 159 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977); see also Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Reg. Comm. 1971).

At issue in this case is whether the beneficiary possesses a U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree, and whether the beneficiary meets the requirements of the labor certification.

As is noted above, in order to be classified as a professional, the beneficiary must possess at least a U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree from a college or university. The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) uses a singular description of the degree required for classification as a professional. In 1991, when the final rule for 8 C.F.R. § 204.5 was published in the Federal Register, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (now USCIS or the Service), responded to criticism that the regulation required an alien to have a bachelor’s degree as a minimum and that the regulation did not allow for the substitution of experience for education. After reviewing section 121 of the Immigration Act of 1990, Pub. L. 101-649 (1990), and the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference, the Service specifically noted that both the Act and the legislative history indicate that an alien must have at least a bachelor’s degree: “[B]oth the Act and its legislative history make clear that, in order to qualify as a professional under the third classification or to have experience equating to an advanced degree under the second, an alien must have at least a bachelor’s degree.” 56 Fed. Reg. 60897, 60900 (November 29, 1991) (emphasis added).

It is significant that both section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act and the relevant regulations use the word “degree” in relation to professionals. A statute should be construed under the assumption that Congress intended it to have purpose and meaningful effect. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. Pueblo of Santa Ana, 472 U.S. 237, 249 (1985); Sutton v. United States, 819 F.2d. 1289, 1295 (5th Cir. 1987). It can be presumed that Congress’ requirement of a single “degree” for members of the professions is deliberate.

The regulation also requires the submission of “an official college or university record showing the date the baccalaureate degree was awarded and the area of concentration of study.” 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) (emphasis added). In another context, Congress has broadly referenced “the possession of a degree, diploma, certificate, or similar award from a college, university, school, or other institution of learning.” Section 203(b)(2)(C) of the Act (relating to aliens of exceptional ability). However, for the professional category, it is clear that the degree must be from a college or university.

In Snapnames.com, Inc. v. Michael Chertoff, 2006 WL 3491005 (D. Or. Nov. 30, 2006), the court held that, in professional and advanced degree professional cases, where the beneficiary is statutorily required to hold a baccalaureate degree, USCIS properly concluded that a single foreign degree or its equivalent is required. See also Maramjaya v. USCIS, Civ. Act No. 06-2158 (D.D.C. Mar. 26, 2008)(for professional classification, USCIS regulations require the beneficiary to possess a single four-year U.S. bachelor’s degree or foreign equivalent degree).

Thus, the plain meaning of the Act and the regulations is that the beneficiary of a petition for a professional must possess a degree from a college or university that is at least a U.S. baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree.

In the instant case, the labor certification states that the beneficiary possesses a three-year bachelor of science degree and two year advanced diploma in systems management from the University of [REDACTED] completed in 1995.

The record contains a copy of the beneficiary’s Advanced Diploma and transcripts from the National [REDACTED] awarded March 15, 1995 and a [REDACTED], awarded in September 1993.

The record also contains an evaluation of the beneficiary’s educational credentials prepared by [REDACTED] on July 1, 2010. The evaluation states that the beneficiary possesses the equivalent of a U.S. Bachelor of Science degree in Computer Science based on a combination of the degrees earned by the beneficiary.

The petitioner relies on the beneficiary’s three-year bachelor’s degree combined with the Advanced Diploma as being equivalent to a U.S. bachelor’s degree. A three-year bachelor’s degree will generally not be considered to be a “foreign equivalent degree” to a U.S. baccalaureate. See Matter of Shah, 17 I&N Dec. 244 (Reg. Comm. 1977). Where the analysis of the beneficiary’s credentials relies on a combination of lesser degrees and/or work experience, the result is the “equivalent” of a bachelor’s degree rather than a full U.S. baccalaureate or foreign equivalent degree required for classification as a professional.

The AAO accessed NIIT’s website to determine what type of educational services it provides. See <http://www.niit.com/services/ITEducationforIndividuals/Pages/ComputerCourses.aspx> (accessed February 21, 2014). [REDACTED]; an engineering technology program (Edgeineers), which “helps engineering students and engineering graduates get acquainted with high-end technologies and meet requirements across their academic lifecycle;” networking and infrastructure management programs; basic computer programs; and short-term technology programs. Id. The website does not indicate that [REDACTED] requires a college degree in order to admit a student to any of these programs. Further, there is no evidence that the beneficiary's admission to [REDACTED] was predicated upon the completion of a bachelor's degree program. This must be addressed in any further filings.

The evidence in the record does not establish that the beneficiary's postgraduate diploma was issued by an accredited university, or that a two- or three-year bachelor's degree was required for admission into the program of study.

Therefore, the evidence in the record on appeal was not sufficient to establish that the beneficiary possesses the foreign equivalent of a U.S. bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Mathematics, or a related field.

After reviewing all of the evidence in the record, it is concluded that the petitioner has failed to establish that the beneficiary has a U.S. baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree from a college or university. Therefore, the beneficiary does not qualify for classification as a professional under section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act.

Beyond the decision of the director,³ the petitioner has failed to establish that the beneficiary possesses the experience required for the position as stated on the labor certification, specifically 60 months of experience in the position offered or in any related occupation. Representations made on the certified ETA Form 9089, which is signed by both the petitioner and the beneficiary under penalty of perjury, clearly indicate that the beneficiary's experience with the petitioner cannot be used to qualify the beneficiary for the certified position.⁴ Specifically, the petitioner indicates in question J.20, which ³ An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004) (noting that the AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis).

⁴ 20 C.F.R. § 656.17 states:

(h) Job duties and requirements. (1) The job opportunity's requirements, unless adequately documented as arising from business necessity, must be those normally required for the occupation

.....
(4)(i) Alternative experience requirements must be substantially equivalent to the primary requirements of the job opportunity for which certification is sought; and

(i) If the alien beneficiary already is employed by the employer, and the alien does not meet the primary job requirements and only potentially qualifies for the job by virtue of the employer's alternative requirements, certification will asks about experience in an alternate occupation, that the beneficiary does not have experience in the

be denied unless the application states that any suitable combination of education, training, or experience is acceptable.

(ii) Actual minimum requirements. DOL will evaluate the employer's actual minimum requirements in accordance with this paragraph (i).

(1) The job requirements, as described, must represent the employer's actual minimum requirements for the job opportunity.

(2) The employer must not have hired workers with less training or experience for jobs substantially comparable to that involved in the job opportunity.

(3) If the alien beneficiary already is employed by the employer, in considering whether the job requirements represent the employer's actual minimums, DOL will review the training and experience possessed by the alien beneficiary at the time of hiring by the employer, including as a contract employee. The employer cannot require domestic worker applicants to possess training and/or experience beyond what the alien possessed at the time of hire unless:

(i) The alien gained the experience while working for the employer, including as a contract employee, in a position not substantially comparable to the position for which certification is being sought, or

(ii) The employer can demonstrate that it is no longer feasible to train a worker to qualify for the position.

(4) In evaluating whether the alien beneficiary satisfies the employer's actual minimum requirements, DOL will not consider any education or training obtained by the alien beneficiary at the employer's expense unless the employer offers similar training to domestic worker applicants.

(5) For purposes of this paragraph (i):

(i) The term "employer" means an entity with the same Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN), provided it meets the definition of an employer at § 656.3.

(ii) A "substantially comparable" job or position means a job or position requiring performance of the same job duties more than 50 percent of the time. This requirement can be documented by furnishing position descriptions, the percentage of time spent on the various duties, organization charts, and payroll records.

alternate occupation listed in question H.10. In response to question J.21, which asks, “Did the alien gain any of the qualifying experience with the employer in a position substantially comparable to the job opportunity requested?,” the petitioner answered “no.” The petitioner specifically indicates in response to question H.6 that 60 months of experience in the job offered is required. In general, if the answer to question J.21 is no, then the experience with the employer may be used by the beneficiary to qualify for the proffered position if the position was not substantially comparable⁵ and the terms of the ETA Form 9089 at H.10 provide that applicants can qualify through an alternate occupation. Here, the beneficiary indicates in response to question K.1. that his current position with the petitioner was as a technical architecture consultant (the offered position), and the job duties are the same duties as the position offered. Therefore, the experience gained with the petitioner was in the position offered and is substantially comparable as he/she was performing the same job duties more than 50 percent of the time. According to DOL regulations, therefore, the petitioner cannot rely on this experience for the beneficiary to qualify for the proffered position.

In question K.2, the beneficiary indicates that he qualifies for the offered position based on his employment with [REDACTED] as a Senior Technical Consultant from March 2000 to February 2008. The job duties are the same duties as the position offered. Therefore, the petitioner must demonstrate that the beneficiary’s experience with [REDACTED] was with a different entity than the petitioner. The record does not include evidence that the petitioner and [REDACTED] are different entities. If the petitioner intends to rely on the petitioner’s experience with [REDACTED], pursuant to 20 C.F.R. § 656.17(5)(i), the petitioner must submit evidence with any further filings to demonstrate that [REDACTED] are different entities with different Federal Employer Identification Numbers.

In summary, the petitioner has failed to establish that the beneficiary possessed a U.S. bachelor’s degree or a foreign equivalent degree from a college or university. Therefore, the beneficiary does not qualify for classification as a professional under section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act. The petitioner has also failed to demonstrate that the beneficiary met the experience for the offered position required by the labor certification.

The appeal will be dismissed for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternate basis for the decision. In visa petition proceedings, it is the petitioner's burden to

⁵ A definition of “substantially comparable” is found at 20 C.F.R. § 656.17:

5) For purposes of this paragraph (i):

- ...
(ii) A “substantially comparable” job or position means a job or position requiring performance of the same job duties more than 50 percent of the time. This requirement can be documented by furnishing position descriptions, the percentage of time spent on the various duties, organization charts, and payroll records.

(b)(6)

NON-PRECEDENT DECISION

Page 11

establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Matter of Otieno, 26 I&N Dec. 127, 128 (BIA 2013). Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.